Fliers Win Battle In Aircraft Test Norris, Borah Shield Bobcats

PLANES SAIL THROUGH FIRE WITH ONE HIT

Dauntless Aces Entirely Baffle Searching Finger of Giant Lights

"ENEMY" ADMITS DEFEAT

High Officials Are Impressed by Future Possibilities of Machine Gun

By Associated Press
Fortress Monroe, Va.—With the conceded advantage of a high wind, Langley field aviators scored what the "enemy" admitted to be a complete victory in their tests here Friday of the effectiveness of anti aircraft fire.

The planes, towing their sleeve targets, sailed dauntlessly through both snaphail and machine gunfire, with the latter registering the one hit scored and later, at night, totally baffled the great shafts of light sent up by five powerful search lights in an attempt to spot them in the air. Officers of the anti-aircraft defenses admitted defeat in the tests.

Members of congress and high army and naval officers witnessed the tests, which were arranged by the war department as an outgrowth of the controversy stirred up by the house aircraft committee hearings during the war came to have little or no fear of ground fire.

While, under the disadvantage of the high wind, none of the 39 snaphail charges fired by a battery of two three inch guns found its mark. The machine guns later brought into play bettered this record with a direct hit by one of the .30-calibre bullets.

Army and naval ordnance and aviation officials, while generally galled in their expressions of opinion, seemed impressed particularly with the work of the machine guns in indicating great future possibilities in aircraft defense.

The .20-calibre Browning machine guns also cut down every one of 19 toy balloons sent up while in the same number only one out of three escaped the fire of the .50-calibre guns.

In the snaphail tests, the sleeve targets were towed at elevations ranging from 3,000 to 6,000 feet, coming down to 1,000 feet for the machine gun fire. Three of the snaphail shots were plotted by coast artillery officers as "estimated hits," and they declared the fire would have been more effective if the shells had been of the high explosive rather than the snaphail variety.

GEORGIA CHIEF CANCELS BORGLUM REQUISITION

By Associated Press
Atlanta, Ga.—Governor Clifford Walker Saturday telegraphed Georgia officials in Greensboro, N. C., to request withdrawal of requisition papers which he had issued on the governor of North Carolina for the return of this state of Gutson Borglum to answer indictment growing out of the alleged destruction of the working plans for the Stone Mountain memorial affair the discharge of Borglum as the directing sculptor.

The governor took this action after the adoption of a resolution by the executive committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association which contained a suggestion of the governor that the application for requisition papers be withdrawn.

FEAR LYNCHING WHEN ATTACKER OF GIRL IS TAKEN AFTER SEARCH

Wausau—Reinhold Hoffman of near Athens is in jail here in default of bail of $3,000, waiting preliminary examination charged with a serious offense against a 12-year-old girl, the daughter of a farmer of the Athens neighborhood. The crime is alleged to have been committed Thursday night when the child was intercepted on returning from school. Hoffman eluded the officers until late Friday when he was captured and is alleged to have confessed. Feeling ran so high at Athens Friday night that the accused was hurried here for safe keeping, there being open threats of lynching. It is said the child was severely injured and may not be able to appear Mar. 14 for the trial.

TOMAHAWK CAMP BOUGHT BY LEGION FOR VETERANS' USE

Minne-wa-wa Site, With Facilities for 300, Approved at Meeting Here

American legion members of Wisconsin will have one of the choicest spots in the state as a camp of their own through action taken by the parliament of the legion at a meeting camp purchase committee of Wisconsin department of the legion at a meeting here Friday with L. Hugo Keller, state commander. Approval was given to the purchase of Camp Minne-wa-wa at Tomahawk lake.

Several sites were considered and the one at Tomahawk met with the most favor. It is in a beautiful, wooded lake region and is ideal both for campers and cottagers. The grounds are already equipped with a large assembly building and 17 small cottages. There are facilities for 300. No decision was reached by the committee as to how the camp should be used. It is the state department's plan, Mr. Keller says, to make it a rest camp first of all for veterans of the World War who are convalescing from wounds or injuries. It is expected the arrangements will be made also for its use by members of the American legion from various parts of the state.

Those attending the meeting here were A. A. Petersen, James F. Burns, and Guy Helms, Milwaukee; John Diener, Green Bay; Frank Schmeller, Neenah.

JUDGE DISMISSES CASE AGAINST CITY OF RACINE

By Associated Press
Racine—In rendering his decision on motions after verdict in the case of Sydney P. Butcher of Kenosha, against the City of Racine, wherein the plaintiff sought damages for the death of his wife, when an automobile in which they were riding was precipitated over an embankment into Root river near the Kinzie-ave bridge, Judge Eelden Saturday ordered that the answer to question four of a special verdict be changed from "no" to "yes" whereby the court holds that the plaintiff failed to use ordinary care in the operation of his automobile.

The conclusion of the court was that the plaintiff is guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law requiring judgment for the defendant.

The court directed that an order be entered changing the answer to question four and for judgment upon the verdict thus changed in favor of the defendant and dismissing the complaint of the plaintiff.

BASTILE FILLED TO BRIM AS MOONSHINERS POUR IN

Milwaukee—The Milwaukee house of correction admitted 27 prisoners from Superior Saturday serving sentences under federal charges, and established a record for the number of persons under sentence there. The total Saturday was 603, a possibility that this number would be increased early in the week, provided a regulation Saturday and Sunday collection of law violators are taken by the police.

Officials at the house of correction are making preparations for reception of any who may be sent to the establishment and it will be necessary for cots to be used if the number increases much more.

Above is the present Mrs. Dennistoun, formerly the wife of the Earl of Carnarvon of King Tut fame, while inset is Sir John Cowans. The former Mrs. Dennistoun is suing her husband for money alleged to have been loaned him prior to their divorce. In the trial she denied that she had been guilty of friendly relations with anyone except Sir Cowans and a Spaniard named Bolin.

Specialists Operate On Crippled Tax Bill

Madison—The administration income tax bill invalid of the Wisconsin legislature has, in the past few days, undergone treatment at the hands of tax specialists called in by Governor J. J. Blaine and Chairman O. H. Johnson of the Senate committee on corporations and taxation.

An unofficial report on the condition of the bill Saturday was that it will survive and probably make its appearance in the senate Wednesday, but swathed in amendments, one at least affixed by tax experts.

The new amendment, looked upon as a remedy of the last resort to side-step defeat for the bill in the senate, has been prepared to attract the attention of the socialist members of the senate who heretofore have looked upon the bill with disfavor. The bill needs the socialist vote to obtain passage, according to unofficial polls taken by all factions lined up for and against the bill.

Administration leaders Saturday would not say what the amendment would contain, but there were more optimistic concerning its fate.

Senator J. E. Cushman, Denmark, expressed himself as confident the bill would pass the senate. This opinion was concurred in by several other administration leaders. Senator Cushman said he did not consider the amendments as drastic changes in the bill but declared they were material enough to win votes for the bill.

The fact that it is admitted that the bill will come to the senate Wednesday in amended form without the amendment or amendments having been read once or printed, may

HARTFORD OLD SETTLER WILL BE BURIED MONDAY

By Associated Press
Hartford—Funeral services will be held here Monday for Mrs. Ellen Frey, 76, who died at her home here Friday after a long illness. Mrs. Frey was one of the oldest residents of the city, having come here from Milwaukee when a girl. She is survived by five children, Dr. Phil. G. Frey of Milwaukee, John of West Bend, Louis and Elizabeth of Hartford, and Mrs. Albert Wright of Campbellport.

NOMINATE WOMAN TO MICHIGAN REGENTS BOARD FIRST TIME

Ann Arbor, Mich.—For the first time in this state a woman was named as a candidate for regent of the state university. She is Dr. Mary T. Hinsdale of Grand Rapids and the Democratic state convention included her in naming a complete slate for the April election.

The convention developed into an enthusiastic rival meeting late Friday under exhortation of dean Mortimer E. Cooley of the University of Michigan, defeated Democratic candidate for election as United States senator last November. Dean Cooley opened his plea for a strengthening of the party by the references to the Angel Gabriel blowing his trumpet, drawing the analogy of a resurrection of Democratic fortunes.

CHICAGO DRAINAGE DISTRICT WINS IN WATER STEAL TUFF

Weeks Issues Conditional Permit for Drawing 8,500 Second Feet

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Conditioned on satisfactory progress in the construction of a modern sewage disposal project, Secretary Weeks has issued a permit to the Chicago sanitary district for the withdrawal of 8,500 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan up to December 31, 1925. The condition further contemplates reduction of the water withdrawal on a progressive scale to 4,184 cubic feet per second or less by 1935.

The secretary's decision published Saturday was reached after recent hearings at the war department in which arguments were presented by both sides in the long pending dispute between the district and states other than Illinois bordering the Great Lakes over lowering water levels. The district had applied for 10,000 second feet.

To effect the reduction contemplated by 1935, the conditions of the permit involve an estimated expenditure by the district for sewage treatment works of $54,192,000 to cover which it will require additional bonding power.

Among other conditions stipulated on recommendation of Major Rufus W. Putnam, United States district engineer at Chicago, and approved by Major General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers, the city is to agree to pay its share in any future general project to restore lake levels, and post a good faith bond of $1,000,000. The government is particular, however, not to commit itself to even the general position of such a project.

THOMPSON APPEALS FROM VETERANS BUREAU RULING

By Associated Press
Chicago—Appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals was taken Saturday by John W. Thompson, St. Louis and Chicago contractor or who was found guilty with Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans Bureau, of conspiracy to defraud the government. Thompson also will prosecute a separate appeal to the United States Supreme Court on constitutional grounds.

George Ade's Bride Finds Groom's Name Is Fable

Macon, Ga.—"Mrs. George Ade," until six weeks ago Mrs. Tom Oxford, beautiful and reputed wealthy widow of Griffin, Ga., Saturday found her husband's identity questioned.

Six weeks ago she was married to a man purporting to be the Indiana author, accompanying him into Alabama for the ceremony. Shortly afterward, she accompanied her husband here. His coming was announced by local newspaper and in an interview during the past week her husband told reporters he was writing his autobiography.

EXPECT SENATE WILL SIDESTEP WORLD TRIBUNAL

Upper House Has Two-Thirds Majority to Pass Measure, but Probably Won't

G. O. P. LEADERS BALK PLAN Party Pledges May Have to Be Ignored, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1925, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Within the next two weeks the special session of the senate is to continue, there will be every opportunity to ratify the proposed protocol whereby the United States would adhere to the world court—but the best information available at the moment is that the senate will not take advantage of it.

Senator Robinson, leader of the Democrats, can assure practically the solid vote of the Democrats, but he says most of the opposition to considering the proposal is coming from administration senators.

President Coolidge stressed the world court and recommended adherence when he read his inaugural address. He had a faint hope that the senate might follow the house which adopted a resolution favoring American entry into the court. It was passed by more than two thirds vote.

The house isn't required to act on proposals of this kind but the resolution was put through by an overwhelming vote simply to indicate public sentiment as reflected in the house of representatives.

It is an almost unprecedented situation, however, for the Republican party to placed itself on record at the last national convention by affirming the world court proposal in the Republican platform. There is, no other business before the senate that needs right of way. There is no political reason at this time why there should be hesitancy, as no election is imminent. Democrats favor it. Republicans in large numbers openly object to it and President Coolidge wants it.

The senate by blocking consideration would be giving an example of what Vice President Dawes talked about in his inaugural speech. He said a minority could defeat a majority. In this case a handful of senators can block consideration. It requires, however, only a majority to discharge the foreign relations committee from considering the proposal and forcing it to the open senate.

Then a two-thirds vote could be obtained and a closure rule invoked if the senate really wanted to ratify the protocol. The same two-thirds which is necessary to close debate could be in favor naturally of ratifying the protocol.

If the senate abandons the world court proposal and permits it to go over another year it is a question whether American adherence will come for two years more because there will be other things of a domestic character crowding for attention and it usually has been an effective argument for opponents of the court to insist that domestic matters were far more pressing.

RIVER FALLS DEBATORS WIN TRIANGLE ARGUMENT

By Associated Press
River Falls—River Falls normal Friday night won a triangular debate when the home team, upholding the affirmative, won from Superior normal, while the negative defeated the Eau Claire normal at the latter place. The question was resolved that the supreme court should be given powers to overrule decisions of congress.

VISITING COMMITTEE RESENTS REPORTS OF DROPPING INQUIRIES

By Associated Press
Chippewa Falls—The Wisconsin Legislative visiting committee which is investigating the conditions at the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training school here declared in a statement issued Saturday that the committee "wishes to contradict and reprints" the statement that the investigation of charges has been dropped. The statement which is signed by Mildred M. Barber, secretary, reads:

"The Wisconsin state legislature and public in view of the fact that certain statements have appeared in the daily press in reference to the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training school charges, being dropped, the committee wishes to contradict and reprints any such statement. We shall report to the governor and legislature of the true findings. Any further statements not direct from the legislative committee will be challenged. The board of control was notified not to appear at this time because we did not believe their presence was necessary."

WILL PICK ENVOY FOR BERLIN SOON

Jacob Gould Schurman, Former China Minister, Considered Likely Choice

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge has narrowed the field of those under consideration for the vacant ambassadorship at Berlin and definite decision is expected shortly.

It is expected by those in touch with recent developments on the question that the appointment will go to New York state, whose Republican leaders have asked for a greater representation for their state in the high posts of the government, and it is understood the qualifications of both Jacob Gould Schurman, now minister to China, and Charles D. Millis, for years a leader of New York Republicanism, are being urged vigorously upon the White House.

A former president of Coe Hall and a student of international affairs for many years, Minister Schurman has made a record at Berlin which has attracted much favorable comment in official circles here. He was considered some months ago for the ambassadorship at Tokio.

White House officials today declined to comment on the relative qualifications of any of those brought forward for the Berlin post. It was said that no final decision had been reached.

WASHINGTON CHARITY BALL NETS $40,000

Washington, D. C.—Benevolent organizations here netted $40,000, it was announced, from sale of tickets and boxes at the charity ball which Washington society organized to take the place of the traditional inaugural ball Wednesday night after President Coolidge refused to sanction the event as an official part of the ceremonies. Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, chairman of the organization committee, emphasized Friday night one of the receipts had been used to meet expenses, contributions having been made especially for this purpose.

10,000 SIGN NOMINATION PAPERS FOR JUDGE STEVENS

Madison—Nomination petitions containing more than 10,000 names were filed with the secretary of state today in behalf of Judge E. Ray Stevens, candidate for justice of the supreme court, to succeed Justice Burr W. Jones, who has decided to retire from the bench. The election judicial district, comprising the counties of Dane and Sauk, will have as his opponent, John C. Kleist, veteran campaigner and lawyer of Milwaukee.

BOLSHEVISTS OUTLAWED BY NIPPON GOVERNMENT

Tokio—The police preservation act, also known as the anti-bolshevik law, providing for imprisonment for nearly every form of communist activity, was passed by the house tonight while a heavy police guard surrounded parliament. The law is designed to check communist propaganda, and is said by government officials to be a direct result of the Japanese-Russian agreement.

Senator Watson Would Assign Insurgents to Places Below Democrats

OBJECT TO DEGRADATION

Cites Farmer-Labor Assignments Two Years Ago as Precedent

Washington, D. C.—Objection from their own ranks prevented the Republican majority Saturday from completing organization of the new senate. When the Republican organization brought in its slate of committee assignments regarding the La Follette insurgents to places of minor rank, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, and Borah, Republican, Idaho, blocked immediate consideration.

Replying to an inquiry by Senator Borah, Chairman Watson of the Republican committee, said it had been decided to remove Senators La Follette, Wisconsin, Ladd and Frazier, North Dakota, and Brookhart, Iowa, from their former rank and assign them to places below even the rank of the Democrats because of the action taken by the senate Republican conference last November, reading them out of the party.

The party conference had decided, Senator Watson explained, that not only should these senators not be invited to attend further conferences but that they should not be named in filling Republican vacancies on committees.

"Then if these gentlemen are not to be treated as Republicans," Senator Borah returned, "by what right does a Republican committee on committees assign them to places on the standing committees?"

"The answer to that," replied Senator Watson, "is that two years ago when the Farmer-Labor senators came in they asked to be assigned to committee places by the Republicans."

DEMAND DELAY
The Nebraska senator protested against hasty action and said he would require some time to consider the committee list presented by the Republican committee on committees. Senator Borah declared removal of the insurgent group from their positions of seniority was "impolitic, unwise and unfair."

"It is not only unfair to the men themselves," said Senator Borah, "but is unfair to their constituents. I venture to say that within the next two years my colleagues will regret this action and will look back upon it as a mistake." Republican spokesmen, he predicted, would have to devote most of their time "in explaining this act to the constituents when they go into these men's states."

INFLUENCE UNHURT
"You may demote these men," he continued "but they have the same influence in the senate they always had. There is a difference of opinion in the Republican party, but it is not confined to the leaders, but exists among the constituents. If these men stood alone, it would be different. But I see men sitting in this chamber today whose seats will be imperiled if this program goes through."

Senator Watson, Indiana, one of the Republican leaders replied that a political party was organized on reality for only one campaign.

"I do know," he asserted "that in

LIGHTED PIPE CAUSES GAS PLANT FIRE AND INJURES 4

Manitowoc—John Vierig, superintendent, Joseph Radtke foreman, Herbert Jacobs and Roy Heath, workers, were burned about the face Friday in an explosion and fire at the local gas plant of the Wisconsin Fuel company. The accident occurred Friday afternoon during the shift "such as the four injured men were at work on new equipment when one of the workers is said to have entered the room with a lighted pipe. The explosion and fire followed. The damage estimated at $2,000. All of the men will be able to return to work within a month. All are said to have suffered only skin burns.

CHICAGO COUNCIL ORDERS CLAMP ON SALE OF GERMS

Chicago—Because of testimony that disease germ cultures may be "bought as easily as pistols" in the corner's inquest into the death of William Neilson McClinton, millionaire orphan, the city council has ordered its legal department to draft "such laws as may be required and ordinances passed to properly protect the public from any abuse in this regard." State's attorneys conducting an investigation of McClinton's death supposedly from typhoid said the inquiry has convinced them it is an easy matter for any one to obtain deadly germs for evil intent.

MUSIC AND PARADE TO BE FEATURES OF STYLE WEEK OPENING

Most Elaborate Window Displays Are Promised Appleton Shopping Public

Appleton automobile dealers will parade the 1925 model automobiles at 7:30 Wednesday night, the opening of style week in Appleton. Store windows will be unveiled at 7 o'clock in the evening. It has been announced that the parade will go west on College to the boulevard, and then return east. George T. Prim, chief of police, and a platoon of policemen will lead the parade, as has been customary in the past.

The 120th Field Artillery band has been secured to play during the opening night. Style week will close Saturday, March 14.

Great attention will be given this spring to the window exhibitions and promises are made that they will be better and more attractive than ever. Merchants plan to exhibit the newest creations from New York, Paris and other style centers.

While new fashions have been shown for many weeks in the stores, it is planned to have a display during the four days much more elaborate and complete. All of the newest whims and fancies that the well-dressed woman will effect this year are to be displayed, as well as what the well-dressed man will wear.

Nor will the display be confined to wearing apparel, for in the windows will be seen furnishings for the home, home conveniences and many other new fixtures.

PLAN ORGANIZATION OF FRUIT GROWERS

Orchardists Invited to Meeting in Vocational School Next Tuesday

N. A. Rasmussen, veteran fruit grower and proprietor of the Rasmussen fruit farm at Oshkosh, will be the speaker at a meeting of farmers interested in orchard spraying and fruit marketing at 120 Tuesday afternoon at Appleton Vocational school. He will talk on Fruit Growing.

Spray rings and marketing associations have been organized in southern Wisconsin, and it is felt that with the cities of the Fox river valley as a direct market there will be little difficulty in selling all the good apples that can be produced on nearby orchards this fall. Agricultural agent, Amundson county, is making a survey now is being made locally for the market for fruit and an attempt will be made to organize a spray ring similar to those in southern Wisconsin and possibly an association to help market the fruit in the fall. A great many apples go to waste in this vicinity because they are not clean and healthy. Western and New York apples often are sold in Appleton where the local product is unused, Mr. Amundson said.

Anyone interested in fruit growing is invited to the meeting.

THEATRE SPONSORS WRITING CONTEST

Grade school, high school and college students have been invited to take part in an essay contest which Fischer Appleton theatre is conducting in conjunction with the photo-play, "Broken Laws" which is to be here Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, featuring Mrs. Wallace Reid.

GREEN BAY COUNTRY CLUB IN FINANCIAL TROUBLES

Money or no money, the Fox River Country club of Green Bay will continue to exist. This was the sentiment expressed by its president at a recent meeting of stockholders to decide on measures to be taken in regard to outstanding obligations totaling $4,500 and to raise a new fund to make alterations and extensions in the clubhouse. It was determined at the meeting to make an effort to refinance the club. A committee appointed to consider ways and means suggested the issuance of bonds to members in sufficient amounts to cover the indebtedness and the expense of the coming season. The board of directors will meet at 10:30 Sunday morning to select a provisional fund-raising 50 applicants, and to appoint committees for the ensuing season.

NO REVOLUTIONARY CHANGE IN SOCIAL SYSTEM AT COLLEGE

Dr. Naylor Points Out Lawrence Has Been Working Toward Present Plan

That the action taken by Lawrence college authorities in permitting dances on Lawrence campus, under the supervision of the college, was not a "revolutionary" change in the college social system, as was stated in The Post-Crescent on Friday, but rather was evolutionary, Dr. Wilson S. Naylor, acting president of the college, declared in a statement issued Saturday. Dr. Naylor points out that the college has been working toward supervised recreation of the type desired by the students for some time and that Dr. Samuel Plantz, before his death, had often discussed the change which now has been made.

"I fear that the report in your paper yesterday may be somewhat misleading to some readers in that it misrepresents the fundamental facts of the case," Dr. Naylor said. "The proposition to make social changes for the social life of Lawrence students is not revolutionary but evolutionary. The social committee of the faculty last year suggested that student dances be permitted on the campus in order that there should be closer supervision. Dr. Plantz asked the faculty that action be postponed until after the Methodist general conference last May, when he hoped that the rule of the Methodist against dancing would be removed. After Northwestern university permitted dancing on the campus, Dr. Plantz remarked that possibly it was about time for Lawrence to do likewise. It may have escaped the memory of some of your readers that Dr. Plantz himself was the leader in the effort to have the rule as stated in the discipline, removed in the two preceding conferences to the last one, namely in 1920 and 1921. The week before Dr. Plantz' death a provision was made for the beginning of a series of weekly discussion meetings that have continued to the present time, looking toward just such changes in campus life."

"Second, the reason for the proposition that this popular recreation of the students shall be upon the college campus is partly indicated above in the mention of the closer supervision which will eliminate the excuse that some students make for frequenting questionable places, that is that there is no other place provided for this recreation. The student leaders at Lawrence say that it will also justify the faculty in more severe discipline in case the students persist in bringing dishonor upon their fellow students and their institution by continuance in such action."

PLACE HEALTH EXHIBITS AT TWO COUNTY FAIRS

Plans were made for health exhibits and booths at both county fairs this year at the meeting of the Outagamie County Health committee Friday evening in the municipal judge's office at the court house. The exhibits are to be held at Seymour and Hortonville. P. H. Nyman of the committee and he was welcomed by the other members. Much routine business, including the reading of the monthly report of the county nurse, Miss Marie Klein, was transacted.

BUILDING PERMITS

There will be another meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the new Salvation army out-post, located at 207 E. Wisconsin-ave., Neenah. At 8 o'clock Monday evening a series of singing and dancing will be given at the church, Kimberly, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and interment took place in the village cemetery.

Bar Association Meets The Outagamie County Bar association will meet at 12:15 Monday noon in Hotel Northern. This will be the regular monthly meeting.

The Weather

WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN Snow or rain probable tonight and Sunday, colder in southwest portion. GENERAL WEATHER A low pressure area which has been developing in the southeast during the past 36 hours now has assumed a definite shape with its center over the lower Missouri valley. It is attended by cloudiness over the northern states from the Great Lakes to the mountains, and snow already is setting in over the northern tier of states. Rain or snow is probable in this section with moderate temperature as the storm passes, followed by slowly clearing and somewhat colder weather by Sunday afternoon or night as the pressure rises, following the passage of the "low."

YOUNGEST

Here is the youngest candidate for Wellesley college, who was registered with the college when she was six hours old. She is Ellen Elaine Kayser, and her parents say she will have her trunk packed and ready to leave for college in the fall of 1924. Dad is now efficiency expert at Wellesley.

STAGE AND SCREEN

LATONIA TRACK LOCATION FOR "THE DIXIE HANDICAP"

Racing scenes for "The Dixie Handicap," Reginald Barker's latest production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which is playing at the Elito Theatre today and Sunday, were filmed at the Latonia track. For this purpose a studio from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer unit in Culver City traveled east to the famous Kentucky race track and photographed the third season of the international race in which Epiphani, the French champion, ran and lost.

In the picture, "The Dixie Handicap," a thoroughbred two years old captures the Derby and provides a smashing finish for a colorful romance of the South. This climax was carefully prepared by Barker, who determined that nothing but the real thing would do for this sequence.

"WIFE OF THE CENTAUR" COMING HERE NEXT WEEK

"Wife of the Centaur," King Vidor's film version of the novel by Cyril Hume, will be at the Elito Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the story that has caused considerable discussion recently, written by an undergraduate at Yale, and dealing with the theory that every man is half poet, half beast, and that there is a continual struggle going on between the two.

PLEASING EFFECTS IN "RAINBOW"

Some pleasing effects have been obtained for "Rainbow," the Albee Calhoun production which will be shown at the New Elito Theatre on Monday. The novelties add to the interest of an already pleasing story of humor, pathos, love, adventure and strong dramatic incident.

The story of "Rainbow" deals with the adventures of a young girl brought up by three foster fathers who are engaged in working a mine left by her father. Through the duplicity of an uncle the mine was sold and a claimant appears on the property, much to the disgust of the three daughters. After numerous dramatic situations the young girl learns that the youth is the rightful owner of the mine and prepares to surrender it to him. The youth, however, suggests they form a life-long partnership, in which the ownership of the mine shall never be disputed.

LOVELY PRISCILLA STAR OF NEW FILM

Priscilla Dean, whose latest starring vehicle, "A Cafe in Cairo," Neenah Theatre Saturday and Orpheum Theatre Sunday has been called by a world-famous critic "one of the best six real actresses in the silent dramatic field." Her remarkable transitions from seductive femininity to tigerish fierceness and fighting action and her amazing versatility have made her the screen's prototype of feminine fighting courage.

Miss Dean's consummate artistry is the result of a lifetime of experience. She made her first appearance in pictures with the old Biograph Company following wide experience in stock, vaudeville and Broadway shows dating back when she was but two years of age.

GREAT CAST IN "ARGENTINE LOVE"

An Ibanez story with a perfect cast "Argentine Love," written directly for motion pictures by the great cast of all Spanish novelists, Vicente Ibanez Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen," "Blood and Sand," "Emile of Women," etc., is a picture with a true to type cast if there ever was one.

Everything about the picture is Spanish, and how could one start off better than by the selection of Boho Danicls and Ricardo Cortez for the principal roles.

Dark-haired, dark-eyed Bebo plays a lovely Spanish chorista, confronted with the old, yet ever-new problem of making a choice between two men—one, played by Cortez, a wealthy young South American who has helped her parents financially and asked her hand in return for the favor, the other a handsome American engineer Bebo as Consuelo Parola, meets while at school in the States. James Rennie has the role of the American.

Cortez, within the past few months' screen by John Russell, Gerald Duffy wrote the scenario.

WERNER DISMISSES SUIT STARTED BY AUTO RISK CONCERN

Accident Unavoidable, Judge Holds as He Determines Case

Holding that the suit filed by the Traveler's Indemnity Insurance Co. against the Tri-City Nash Co., Miss Eva Heller, Mrs. Sibilla Mueller and Frank D. Gruper and the cross complaint filed by Mr. Gruper against the other defendants in the first complaint were unjustified, Judge Edgar V. Werner dismissed both complaints in a decision handed down Wednesday morning. Judge Werner had this case, under advisement for several months. Rooney and Grogan were the counsel for the plaintiff and the Tri-City Nash Co. was represented by Mark Catlin. Mrs. Mueller and Miss Heller were represented by Bradford and Bradford and Mr. Gruper by C. G. Cannon.

The complaints arose from an accident which occurred on Highway 15 near Gmenor's Corner on Aug. 18, 1923. A Nash car recently purchased by Miss Mueller and Miss Heller from the Tri-City Co. and driven by Miss Heller collided with a car driven by Frank Gruper. Gruper veered off and hit a car driven by Franklin D. Lake of Menasha. Mr. Lake collected the insurance from the Traveler's Indemnity Co., which promptly sued the others concerned in the accident to recover the amount. The complaint was dismissed when Judge Werner ruled that Gruper had hit the Mueller car, but the accident had been unavoidable and Gruper's cross-complaint against the other defendants was dismissed as unjustified.

WINS DIVORCE ON PLEA THAT HUSBAND IS CRUEL

An absolute divorce was granted Saturday morning to Minnie Smith of Appleton, from her husband Charles Smith, also of Appleton, by acting municipal judge, Fred V. Heinemann. The decree gave Mrs. Smith an absolute divorce, but she will not receive alimony. The couple has one son, 13 years of age, who is self supporting. The plaintiff charged the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment, drunkenness and failure to support her. They were married June 18, 1904. Bradford and Bradford appeared for the plaintiff.

FIREMEN TAKE THE AIR THREE TIMES OVERNIGHT

With the arrival of balmy weather, the firemen were able to take the air three times within the last 24 hours, thanks to people who were obliged to turn in alarms. There were two chimney fires and one roof fire. The chimney fire occurred at 7:30 and 8 o'clock Friday evening, respectively, at the home of William Bashman, 1224 W. Elsie st., and at Kresgo store.

The department was called at 10:15 Saturday morning to the home of Mrs. Louise Millard, 207 N. Lawest, where sparks from a chimney ignited the roof. There was practically no damage, as it was necessary to use only a hand chemical extinguisher to put out the blaze.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT LIONS CLUB LUNCHEON

Mrs. Oscar Adler will present a musical program at the meeting of Lions club at 12:15 Monday noon in the Conway hotel. Erick Lundberg, Erick Johnston and Edward Alesch are in charge of the program.

PERSONALS

Mrs. L. Schreiter and daughter Marian, have moved to Chicago, where Mrs. Schreiter has accepted a position.

Mrs. Charles Plette, Mrs. Ernest Bellin, Mrs. Theodore Calmes, and daughter Germaine, were visitors at the home of William Captain of Black Creek, for the last few days.

Miss Katharine Beelen was taken Friday afternoon to St. Elizabeth hospital where she submitted to an operation for appendicitis.

Miss D'Angelina Rossmessel, 316 W. Prospect st., submitted to an operation for appendicitis at St. Elizabeth hospital, Friday morning.

Ministerial Meeting

A regular meeting of the Fox River Valley Ministerial association will be held at 10:30 Monday morning at the Y. M. C. A. Routine business and discussion will occupy the morning.

Car is Stolen

Police here were notified by Clintonville authorities Friday night to be on the lookout for a Ford coupe, 1923 model, which had been stolen there. The car bore a 1924 license plate No. B33,887.

His role in "Argentine Love" is one of his own nationality. Renne, recently seen in the Broadway stage hit, "The Best People," looks every inch the character he portrays.

Miss Daniels and Cortez are featured in "Argentine Love," which will be shown Sunday at the Appleton Theatre. Renne heads the strong cast playing in support.

Others in prominent roles include Marie Majeroni, last seen in "The Swanson" in "The Love Story," Aurelio (Cortez) who saved the apache in "The Apache," with Miss Swanson in "The Humming Bird," Russ Whitall, Alvin Charnin, Julia Hurley and Mark Gonzales.

The picture was adapted for the screen by John Russell, Gerald Duffy wrote the scenario.

BLIND COMPOSER

Charles Astin, of Atlanta, Ga., the original "regime" song writer, who though blind, is still turning out songs. The song which won him his title, was "The Georgia Jubilee," published in 1889.

FIVE FOR ALDERMAN IN SIXTH WARD NOW

A. H. Gorges and J. H. Fielder File Papers—Peter Greisch Files in First Ward

Election competition will be the hottest in the Sixth ward at the primaries March 24, since there are more candidates seeking office there than anywhere else in the city. With the filing of papers by A. H. Gorges and J. H. Fielder Saturday with E. L. Williams, city clerk, there are five seeking the nomination for alderman. The others are H. R. Beske, incumbent, Thomas Davis and F. W. Wiese.

A 3-cornered primary fight also will take place in the First ward where a third candidate has entered the aldermanic field. He is Peter Greisch, whose opponents are H. G. Thomas and Mark Catlin. Mr. Greisch is proprietor of the Hupmobile garage.

Papers have been filed by John Kohl, Jr., for county supervisor from the Fifth ward.

Monday is the last day for filing papers for the primary campaign.

ROONEY'S NOMINATION PAPERS FILED SATURDAY

Attorney F. J. Rooney, candidate for county judge, Saturday morning filed nomination papers with John B. Hantschel, county clerk. Mr. Rooney will be opposed by Judge Fred V. Heinemann who is seeking reelection.

More for the Price Than You Ever Bought Before

The popularity of the new good Maxwell has simplified the buyer's task, for such marked public favor is sure indication of defects and superiorities thoroughly demonstrated.

Some of these superiorities you will see at a glance the first time you look at a new good Maxwell. You'll note, of course, that in good looks, fine appointments and roomy comfort the new good Maxwell gives more than you were ever able to buy before at the price.

You'll learn, also, how the new good Maxwell is made and built, almost to the smallest detail—all in the great Maxwell plants. You'll appreciate how much that means in greater quality, reliability and economy. But neither we nor any good Maxwell owner can give you an adequate idea of how much finer this car is in results than any four you have ever known. You must experience these results for yourself.

When you have driven the new good Maxwell 58 miles an hour, rushed from 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds and enjoyed its remarkable ease of riding, you will begin to understand how superior in value it really is. We are eager to prove these Maxwell superiorities in a demonstration.

Touring Car, $895; Club Coupe, $995; Club Sedan, $1045; Standard Four-Door Sedan, $1095; Special Four-Door Sedan, $1245. All prices f.o.b. Detroit, tax extra.

LESS THAN HALF OF CITY'S RESIDENTS USE LIBRARY BOOKS

Forty-three Per Cent of People Borrowed 105,188 Books in 1924

More than 43 per cent of the people of Appleton borrowed books from the Appleton Free Public Library in 1924, according to the annual report of Florence C. Day, librarian, to the board of trustees. The report shows that the total circulation for the year was 105,188 volumes, a gain of 18,579, or 21 per cent over the previous year. Of this number, 8,407 were non-fiction and 10,172 fiction. The financial statement for the year shows a balance on hand of $24.68, the total receipts having been $14.

At the beginning of the year there were 728.80 and the expenditures $14. were 19,463 volumes in the library. Of these 610 were withdrawn from circulation but the addition of 1,975 volumes during the year brought the total up to 20,828. The majority of books are in the adult room which contains 16,338 volumes. In the children's room there are 4,490.

Borrowers registered at the beginning of 1924 numbered 7,104, of which 5,003 were adults and 2,101 children. During the year 235 registrations were cancelled and 1,752 new ones recorded. Thus the total registrations for 1924 show an increase of 497 over the previous year. Based on the estimate on the 1920 census figures, the Appleton library is serving 43 per cent of the population of Appleton. Among the patrons registered are 2,426 children and 6,175 adults, 506 are people who live outside the city of Appleton.

Of the total circulation 32,801 volumes were English non-fiction. Fiction volumes borrowed numbered 67,772. Unbound periodicals, 3,130, and foreign language books 1,476. The adult room exceeded the children's room in fiction circulation by 19,166, while the children's room exceeded the adults room in circulation of non-fiction by 5,615. The circulation per capita according to 1920 census figures was 5.3 books.

The largest expenditure for the year was $4,147 for salaries. Next came $2,961.12 for books, $280.75 for permanent improvements, $797.06 for repairs, $759 for janitor's services, $628.11 for periodicals and $512.28 for binding. Other items such as postage, printing and stationery made up the total of $14,704.12.

A city appropriation of $13,500 was the chief income. There was an unexpended balance of $286.04 from 1923, fines, payments for lost books and damage to books brought in $666.73, interest from all sources amounted to $162.56 and the collection of rent was netted $113.47.

Books in the literature department were catalogued with the assistance of four students from the University of Wisconsin. These volumes were relabeled and put back on the shelves to complete the work started by former students. An inventory of children's books also was taken during the summer months and the catalogue was revised.

During the month of January the library was cleaned and redecorated. The city council offered an increase of $1,500 in the library appropriation for this year, which will allow a further purchase of books.

CHILDREN PRESENT PROGRAM OF PURIM

Children of Moses Montefiore congregation will present a program in keeping with Purim, or the Feast of Esther, next Monday evening. The children will read about the feast and services will be held from 6 o'clock to 7:30 P. M. There also will be services on Tuesday morning from 8 to 10 o'clock to celebrate the feast.

The Purim probably is the most popular of all Jewish holidays. Esther, a lovely Jewish maiden, reared by her cousin Mordecai, was brought to the court of Ashaserus when the royal order went forth for the most beautiful maidens to be brought before him, that he might choose a consort in place of Vashti, who had refused to obey the king in unveiling her beauty before the noblemen of the court. The Jewish maiden, Esther, was chosen.

Mordecai, her cousin overheard Haman, viceroy to the king, plotting against all the Jews. Esther, in an effort to save her people, entered the royal presence without being summoned, but the king accepted her invitation to dine with her and also invited Haman. The king became angry when he found Haman on his knees before Esther, and when he learned of the plot against the Jews, ordered Haman hanged. The Jews were permitted to defend themselves and all ended joyfully, with the order that the anniversary of the redemption be celebrated every year by rejoicing and sending gifts to the poor. The Purim has become the great season of merry-making and the story is retold to the children in many forms, or played out before them on the stage of the religious school.

Monarch Paint—

Chemical Analyses that Tell the Story.

The quality of our paint and varnish is the keynote of our proposition.

All shades of Monarch Paint 100% Pure with the exception of a few dark browns and greens, are made on a white base. The analysis clearly shows that the white base is made of pure Lead and pure Zinc, ground in pure Linseed Oil. These metals are admitted to be the best that can be used in making paint, as they are the hardest obtainable and will at the same time carry more Linseed Oil than soft pigments, like Whiting, Barytes, etc.

Customers will readily appreciate this quality, as it means a material saving in dollars and cents to them. The popularity of Monarch 100% pure with the Master Painter, is more an indication probably than anything else of its real value.

We will appreciate an opportunity of serving you with Monarch Paint 100% Pure for your Spring requirements.

212 FIRES HERE IN 1924 RESULTED IN LOSS OF $60,860

Fewer Calls Than in 1923 but Loss Is Greater Fire Chief Reports

Fire losses in Appleton during 1924 totaled $60,860.42 according to the annual report of Chief George P. McGillan filed with the Appleton Police and Fire commission Wednesday. During the period covered by the report the department responded to 212 calls. Of these calls 198 were by telephone and 14 from the alarm boxes.

In 1923 the number of calls was 227 and the total loss was $151,371.12. The number of fires was smaller in 1924, but several bad blazes during the winter caused a greater loss. In several fires during 1924, hydrants were frozen and the firefighters generally were hindered by the extreme cold, but the wet summer was responsible for reducing the total number of calls.

Included in the report for last year were 30 calls for the lungmower. One call came from New London.

POLICE MAKE ONLY 8 ARRESTS IN FEBRUARY

From the standpoint of law observance Appleton has improved 100 per cent since January, according to the monthly report of Chief George T. Prim filed with the Appleton Police and Fire commission Wednesday. In January a total of 16 arrests were made, while the February report shows just half that number. Of the eight persons arrested last month two were picked up as "mashers" one for passing worthless checks one for violation of the arterial highway ordinance, three for drunkenness and one for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

The February report showed that the automobile ambulance was called out three times during the month and covered a total of 19 miles. Eighty-five runs were made by the police touring car, which traveled 371 miles.

The report was filed with Secretary D. E. Vaughn of the commission.

IOWA HAS MISSED SOMETHING

It appears the legislature of Iowa is confronted with a proposal to adopt income taxation in that state. One of the authors of the Iowa income tax bill wrote Governor Blaine for evidence in favor of such an act. Mr. Blaine replied with the desired testimonial, which is to the effect that after taking a dozen bottles of inometaxirina Wisconsin has developed such marvelous industrial vigor it is the envy of the country. The inferences are that income taxes here have been a great help in securing and expanding manufacturing.

One of the co-authors of the income tax bill, upon receipt of Mr. Blaine's commendatory letter, was so impressed with the value of the income tax as a business getter and industry builder that he quoted figures of the United States internal revenue department to show that between 1917 and 1922 New York gained 48,000 business corporations and Wisconsin 600, both states having an income tax law, "while Iowa without one lost 400 business corporations."

Here is a brand new light on income taxation. Iowa is urged to adopt income taxation in order to build up its industrial and commercial business. Think of what might have been done in Wisconsin had our chambers of commerce and our municipalities used our income tax law as an asset for bringing in new industry. Think how effective it would have been to invite capital to come into Wisconsin and enjoy income taxation and wax fat on its benefits. We may be sure that Iowa will make the most of its opportunity once it gets this law on its statute books. It is surprising that the idea has never before occurred to so progressive a state as Wisconsin.

There is no disposition anywhere to argue with Governor Blaine about income taxation. We have it, we are used to it, it is a good revenue producer and there are some things which recommend it. It is an easy method for passing a tax onto the ultimate consumer, provided the tax is kept within reason. What Wisconsin industry objects to is the constant agitation in the legislature to increase taxation and to pass other laws which discriminate against manufacturing and make it more difficult to compete in general markets.

The beauties and blessings of income taxation make an inspiring theme for the super-progressives; the nearer it comes to confiscation the better it is to him. But of course Mr. Blaine can think and talk only in terms of politics. He knows that whatever industrial development has taken place in Wisconsin has been in spite of onerous taxation. He also knows that a vast amount of capital outlay and industrial development has been throttled by our tax policies, actual and threatened. Both he and the Iowa solon in pointing to New York's income tax neglect to state that it is reducing the tax 25 per cent and that Michigan has refused to adopt income taxation. If we had a policy of tax reduction, income and other forms, in Wisconsin, that would be getting somewhere. But instead we have a policy at Madison of increased taxation—an increase in the administration bill that will almost double the tax of many business enterprises.

STUDY IN CONTRAST

What a contrast is afforded by the tax policy of President Coolidge as elaborated in his inaugural address, and the tax policy of our state administration. It is a lesson in political economy that our legislators and our governor would do well to absorb. "The wisest and soundest method of solving our tax problem is through economy," says Mr. Coolidge. He has reduced public expenditures by billions of dollars, he has reduced taxes by hundreds of millions and he is going to continue to reduce both expenditures and taxes. This, he wisely holds, is the road to prosperity and to the common good of all.

At Madison the plan is to increase the already onerous tax burden in this state by some $6,000,000 annually, and this notwithstanding the state treasury is overflowing with funds and there is more money on hand than the politicians know how to spend. Consider this policy in the light of Mr. Coolidge's statement that "the collection of any taxes which are not absolutely required, which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare, is only a species of legalized larceny." We leave the deduction and its application to conditions in Wisconsin to the reader. Consider also this from the president:

I favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save people. The men and women of this country who toil are the ones who bear the cost of government. Every dollar that we carelessly waste means that their life will be so much the more meager. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much the more abundant. . . . The time is arriving when we can have further tax reduction, when unless we wish to hamper the people in their right to earn a living we must have tax reform. The method of raising revenue ought not to impede the transaction of business; it ought to encourage it. . . . We cannot finance the country, we cannot improve social conditions, through any system of injustice, even if we attempt to inflict it upon the rich. Those who suffer the most harm will be the poor. . . . The wise and correct course to follow in taxation and all economic legislation is not to destroy those who have already secured success, but to create conditions under which everyone will have a better chance to be successful.

Over these words the government down at Madison ought to ponder. Whether it does or not, we are sure they will be weighed carefully and thoughtfully by the people of Wisconsin. They express economic truths that are unassailable, and that are fundamental to the well-being, advancement and prosperity of every individual. They point the way to improvement in the lot of the poor, as well as to the prosperity of those constructive enterprises which must continue to be successful and profitable if there is to be general prosperity. The policy of radicalism in Wisconsin, the policy of the present state administration, is to strike at successful enterprise, is to do exactly what President Coolidge declares is both futile and harmful.

If the people of Wisconsin do not see the truth of what the president says they will have to suffer the consequences, and the chief suffering will be among those least able to sustain it. The resourceful, the successful, the rich if you will, will take care of themselves, even to the extent of removing from the state if that is necessary.

Had Mr. Coolidge's inaugural been specifically addressed to the people of Wisconsin it could not have been better worded. It covers the whole tax situation in this state and is an indictment of the administration policy and the proposed tax legislation. We cannot but believe the common sense and good judgment of the people of Wisconsin will recognize the force and significance of the president's counsel and that they will approve it.

The political situation at Madison is utterly reckless. It is conceived in rancor and folly. Between it and the position of President Coolidge there is an insuperable gulf. One is a blind assault on productive enterprise and success. The other is a conservation of production, encouragement of enterprise and relief of the people from excessive taxation and living costs. The people can take their choice.

One of these days the pendulum is going to swing in Wisconsin back to the high and sound plane on which Mr. Coolidge stands. The only question is how much farther it is going to swing in the other direction and how much damage it is to cause before the reaction comes.

ETHMOID HEADACHE.

The ethmoid (sieve like) bone is a little bone in the floor of the skull between the eye sockets. The ethmoid cells (or sinuses) are a series of little air spaces in the ethmoid bone which communicate, as do the other nasal sinuses, with the nasal cavity and are lined with the same mucous membrane. Acute and chronic inflammation of the ethmoid cells are much more frequent than even the doctors formerly supposed, and in many cases of chronic ethmoiditis, suppuration within the cells, no diagnosis or a wrong diagnosis is still made, with consequently futile treatment, for want of a proper examination. Among the conditions for which chronic purulent or suppurating ethmoiditis is mistaken are bronchial asthma, neuralgia, eye trouble, and chronic headache.

The headache of ethmoiditis is often ascribed to constipation, eyestrain, overwork, and other hypothetical factors and the sufferer ignores the nose or throat trouble, perhaps considers it "catarrh." Another hypothetical explanation and attributes it to our climate or the weather, both of which are always unsatisfactory here at home. I merely assert that there is no such entity as "catarrh"—no reputable physician will attempt to define such a disease. I do not mean to imply that there is nothing the matter with any one who assumes his trouble is "catarrh." Only outright quacks and nostrum fakers purport to recognize a specific condition or disease as "catarrh." Now if you've got the "catarrh" please don't get mad at me—ask the man you bought it from.

Some individuals with chronic ethmoiditis go through their lives with chronic headache, for which they take all manner of remedies and treatment. The headache of ethmoiditis is likely to be worse, like many other kinds of headache, when the victim happens to be active, and that leads to a lot of unwise dosing with physic.

Overuse of the eyes will bring it on or increase it, and here the spectacle charlatan gets in a good stroke of business.

The headache is aggravated by stooping down, or by jarring.

The pain is felt right between the eyes, where the ethmoid cells are. Often there is a sense of weight or pressure over the top of the head. In some cases there are dizziness and vertigo with the headache.

Ethmoiditis of this chronic purulent type usually begins in childhood, in a series of acute attacks, which are not recognized because so many people and so many doctors dismiss such attacks in children as "common colds."

Not every case of chronic ethmoiditis is accompanied with headache, and not every chronic headache is caused by disease of these cells.

The physician diagnoses ethmoiditis by (1) speculum examination and inspection of the drainage opening of the sinuses, (2) corroborative evidence in the X-ray picture in many cases.

Ethmoiditis is not rarely the underlying cause and source of chronic middle ear suppuration.

Ethmoid headache is surgical headache, although many cases of acute ethmoiditis proceed to complete recovery without surgical intervention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Smoking.

Please advise me if you consider smoking injurious to one's health. If not, which is best to smoke, and about how often or how many times a day—cigar, pipe or cigarette? (M. N. F.)

Answer—Depends on whether one is a man, woman, child. Full grown men may smoke moderately without suffering any injury to health. Moderately means one or two smokes after the day's work or play is over. Women whose education and development are completed may perhaps smoke moderately, too, without injury to their health—but they don't. When a woman gets the tobacco habit she has it only a short time before the habit has her, and she goes to excess. What to smoke is a matter of individual taste.

ROLLO

Saturday Sermon

"Christ, the Worlds Savior," is the title of the sermon given below, which was prepared for the Post-Crescent by the Rev. John Root, pastor of First Congregational church, Menasha.

Text: Matt. 1:21. "And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his people from their sins."

Such was the startling message delivered to Joseph, the husband of Mary, by the angelic messenger. Joseph needed that message very much for he was perplexed and troubled and undecided at a time when he needed to be reassured and comforted and directed. When we look out upon the world around us and see want, sickness and evil, where we know God would have happiness, health and righteousness, we realize that the world needs a Savior. Christ is the world's Savior and our Savior.

Panaceas of all sorts have been prescribed for the woes and sorrow of humanity. Many of them have been tried and found wanting. The human heart has been slow to turn to the real and only source of help until by some exigency or emergency it is driven to seek refuge in God. Sin has alienated man from God and distorted his moral nature and he reacts to the suggestion that there is some other way out. He refuses to believe that he cannot by the sheer force of his own will make himself righteous. But across the way leading to eternal life is the flaming sword and the words, "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven among men whereby they must be saved."

A PERPETUAL EASTER

The season of the year is very opportune for considering the fundamental facts of the Christian religion for more people are trying to be religious during lent than in any other period of the church calendar. It is a great pity that more do not achieve something permanent, transforming and satisfying and thus enjoy a perpetual Easter of resurrection life and power. One day Jesus asked his disciples a very abrupt question, "Whom do men say that I, the son of man, am?" They replied, "Some say one thing, some say another, but he replied, 'Whom say ye that I am?'" Simon Peter replied, "Thou art the Christ the son of the living God," and Jesus declared that upon this answer He would build his church. The question therefore was fundamental and the basis of the Christian life.

Jesus directed men to find the data for Christianity primarily and essentially in Himself. Jesus did not teach men about the eternal principles of truth but said, "I am the Truth." To the seeker after eternal life he said, "Follow me." To the poor and the needy, the tired and the weary he said, "Come unto me." It is not to be wondered that the temple soldiers when sent to take him, came back without him and in reply to the question "Why have ye not brought him?" replied "Never man spake like this man. He came unto his own but his own received him not but as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name."

SOUGHT THE LAST

All through his earthly ministry he was seeking the lost to save them from their sins. How tender, patient and long suffering he was! How eager to reveal Himself as the Savior who came into the world to save the people from their sins. The scholarly, intellectual, influential Pharisee Nicodemus who came by night to see him, was told that he needed to be born again, that he needed a Savior to save him from perishing and give him eternal life. The poor outcast Samaritan woman that had sacrificed the dearest possession of earth was told that she might have eternal life as a gift and that her life could be transformed and made like an artesian well blessing and enriching her environment, and that the one and the only one that could produce such a change was the one who came to be her Savior. A few people recognized him, as, for instance the poor Syro-Phoenician woman who had such faith in him that she said, "If I may touch the hem of his garment I shall be made whole." Evidently others were so impressed with the results that they too sought Jesus who came to be their Savior and were also healed.

Christianity, however, is not merely an historic affair neither is the Jesus of history sufficient for the needs of today. We must have a present ever living Savior, one who understands the sin question and is himself the remedy. It must be one who turned his back to the tempter who urged him to avoid the cross and get the crown by the way of ease and self indulgence. It is the one who went all the way to calvary and bore in his own sinless body the penalty due to sin and exclaimed, "It is finished" and dying said, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." Jesus thus justified himself and proved himself to be what he came into the world to be and to do, to "save the people from their sins." In what respect, then, is Jesus Christ, the world's redeemer?

Jesus Christ is sufficient by his life, death and resurrection for the world's salvation but efficient only for those who accept him, trust him, obey him, believe in him as their own personal Savior.

Q. How is pate de foie gras made? T. S.

A. The real pate is made abroad and imported in jars and tins. A mock pate de foiegras may be made as follows: Take the liver of three or four fowls and four gizzards, three tablesponfuls melted butter, one chopped onion, one tablespoonful Worcester-shire sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Boil the livers until done, drain and wipe them dry. When cold rub them to a paste. Simmer together butter and chopped onions for 10 minutes; strain and mix with seasoning; mix well. Butter a small jar and pack the mixture as tightly as possible into it, placing in the mixture small pieces of the gizzard to imitate truffles. Cover with melted butter.

Q. Why is Alexander Hamilton often spoken of as "the father of his country"? R. B.

A. The title, "father of his country," is generally reserved for George Washington. Alexander Hamilton, however, undoubtedly rendered enormous economic and financial assistance to the country at the time. During his term of office as first Secretary of the Treasury his services, according to some authorities, were scarcely less invaluable than those of Washington himself.

We have finished selling the $1,000,000 issue of Wisconsin Electric Power Co. 6 1/2% cumulative preferred shares first offered to home investors last November. The remainder of the Company's new capital needs for 1925 will be financed by the sale of an additional $500,000 of these 6 1/2% shares, now offered at $100 each, payable all cash or $5 down and $5 monthly per share. These shares, in our judgment, offer a thoroughly safe permanent income investment, paying cash dividends of $1.62 1/2 per share every three months. We recommend these shares especially for the safe investment of savings.

KAUKAUNA DROPS
GAME TO BAYMEN
BY SINGLE POINT

Electric City Crew Hopeful of Getting Revenge at State Tournament

Kaukauna—Possibilities for victory in the district tournament in Appleton next week loomed brighter after Friday evening when the Kaukauna high school team dropped a game by a slender margin of one point to West Green Bay. The final score was 13 to 12. Although the Orange and Black were nosed out on points, those who witnessed the game are planning their faith on Kaukauna's pinning their trick at Appleton where the locals are more acquainted with floor conditions.

The Green Bay boys were forced to the limit every minute of play. In spite of the fact they were on their own floor the home players were unable to outdistance Coach Smith's warriors. The first half ended with the score tied at six points. During that period Baler caged two field goals and Farwell garnered the other.

In the second period Miller plugged the basket once and missed a free throw. Macarrie made one out of two tries at free points and Farwell caged his second basket. Baler also added a point after being fouled. Rondon was the big flash for Green Bay in the second half. He shot two field goals and garnered a free throw giving the home team what proved to be the winning margin.

West Green Bay has been chosen as Kaukauna's first opponent in the district tournament.

200 SEE PROGRAM OF 3
GOOD BASKETBALL GAMES

Kaukauna—About 200 fans attended three interesting basketball games played Friday evening at the high school auditorium. The main event was a game between Kaukauna high school girls and Little Chute. The locals won 5 to 3 after a hard battle which took two five minute overtime periods to decide. In the semi-windup Kobus' Specials defeated Kaukauna vocational school 15 to 3 and in the preliminary Appleton junior high won from Kaukauna junior high 8 to 0.

Eva Metoxen was easily the star of the final exhibition. She played a good floor game and made all of Kaukauna's points. Grace Doyle scored Little Chute's three markers. The lineup for the visitors included Miss Doyle, left forward, Agnes Williamson, right forward; Jessie VanHandia, right guard, Cecell Gerritz, left guard and Ada Vandenberg, center. Kaukauna's team was composed of Eva Metoxen, right forward; Anna Toman, left forward; Alice Burke, center; Genevra Frank, right guard and, Mary Schmidt, left guard.

Gordon Welsh and William Wings were referees for the games.

BROTHERHOOD MEMBERS
ENTERTAIN LADIES

Kaukauna—About 75 persons attended the social meeting of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip at its monthly meeting Friday evening in Reformed church basement. It was an open session and members of the organization entertained their wives and ladies. The business session was short because of the social program which followed. Community singing provided part of the entertainment.

A talk on the interdenominational meeting last week in Chicago was given by Roland Bach of Reformed Mission house. Prizes at games were won by Mrs. August Stegeman, Mrs. Arthur Kuehl, J. J. Haass and Roland Bach.

BOWLERS WIN $156
AT STATE TOURNEY

Kaukauna—Local bowlers who took part in the state bowling classic at Fond du Lac a few weeks ago captured $156.44 between them according to word received here Friday. Checks for the winners were received together with a printed copy of all the prize winners. Every Kaukauna man who entered the tournament received something.

The Electric City five man team won $47.50. The team was tied for thirty-third place with the Montague Candy team of La Crosse. The men rolled a score of 2,769. Henry Minkeberg and Allan Peterson hit a score of 1164 in doubles and were tied for fifty-sixth to fifty-eighth place. Their reward was $21.34. Paul Smith and William Johnson rolled into sixteenth place in doubles and captured $21. Carl Hugenberg and T. Landie won $15 with a score of 1,146 which put them one hundred and five steps from the leaders.

In singles A. Peterson went into thirty-second place with a score of 639 and received a check of $24. Minkeberg won $16 for sixty-third place with a score of 627. Frank Hugenberg garnered a total of 567 pins which was good for a check for $2.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF DAY
OLD CHICKS IS RECEIVED

Kaukauna—Local post office employees recognized a harbinger of spring Friday when the first shipment of baby chicks was received here for delivery to a Kaukauna patron. The chicks were one day old white leghorns and were shipped from Eldorado, Ill. All were alive when they reached this city. The chicks were consigned to H. M. Grissman.

CIVIC LEAGUE PLANNING

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The Civic Improvement league will give a St. Patrick party in Library hall Monday evening. Each member may bring a friend. The first part of the evening will be occupied in readings, talks and papers on the life of St. Patrick, followed by luncheon and a social hour with contests and games. Mrs. Nelson Demming, Mrs. A. C. Borohardt, Mrs. D. E. Egan, Mrs. Ben Harquist, Mrs. H. R. Cristy, Mrs. Charles Remick, Mrs. Leonard Cline and Mrs. Otto Lemke will be the hostesses for the occasion.

MRS. FLORA YOUNG DIES
AT BEAR CREEK HOME

New London—Mrs. Flora Young, 85, died at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of her son Frank Young town of Deer Creek.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning from St. Mary Catholic church at Bear Creek. Interment will be in Bear Creek Catholic cemetery.

Gordon Welsh and William Wings were referees for the games.

NEW LONDON QUINT
TRAMPLES ON IOLA
BASKETEERS, 32-7

Schedule Another Game With
Speedy Clintonville Team
Before Tournament

By Associated Press
New London—New London high school won a basketball game and scheduled another Friday night, when it defeated the Iola high quintet by a score of 32-7, and charted up the Clintonville highs for a third game, to be played in Knights of Columbus hall Monday night. The game with Clintonville was scheduled for Friday afternoon, but both schools desired another game before they enter the tournament.

Although the local school had decided that Iola would be its last game, Clintonville was too good a chance to turn down, each school having beaten the other once during the season. The Clintonville—New London game promises to be one of the fastest and hottest contests ever staged on the local floor.

The New London—Iola game was a slow affair, rambling along at almost a tie for the entire first half. The Red and White couldn't wake up to the fact that they were playing basketball during the first half, when they finally opened up and began scoring at will. Iola is not even attempting to stop them in the last quarter.

JILLSON STARS
Jillson did not go in until the last quarter, due to his recent illness, and the fact that he is being saved over until next week. But when he did get into the affair, he dropped four doubles and one single through the hoop.

Huntley at forward proved to be New London's chief cager, making fourteen points on seven baskets. Jillson came next with four baskets and a free throw, scoring nine points in the last quarter. Ladwig brought in four on two baskets, Lovell and Hetzer, one basket apiece, while Charlesworth scored a free throw, bringing the total to 32 points for New London.

Practically all of New London's team with the exception of Ladwig and Jillson, were cut during the last quarter, and the game was full of substitutions made by Coach Polonis of the Red and White.

Everett Cooley of New London refereed the contest, and saw to it that everybody got a square deal.

JUNIORS QUARREL
ON CLASS COLORS

Committees Appointed for Class
Stunts Toward Winning of Spirit Cup

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The junior class of the local high school, at a meeting Friday afternoon, passed a resolution authorizing the class president to appoint a committee of five to arrange for the class stunt which goes toward the winning of the spirit cup, to be staged during the interclass oratorical and declamatory contests next month.

These stunts are put on each year by each class, the best one scoring the most points toward the cup. The junior committee will be appointed next week.

A grand old row arose over the changing of the class colors, orange and black, which were chosen by the class two years ago.

One member of the class charged that the colors were chosen through a graft. This was hotly denied by others.

In the end a committee was appointed to consult with Supt. R. J. McMahon on the subject. The committee was picked from the two opposing factions. The committee consists of Russell Rumanoff and Melvin Schmollenberg for the changing and George Rosentreter and Gregory Charlesworth, against. They will consult with the principal next week.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HAS CHILDREN'S SERVICE

New London—Sunday evening's community services in the Congregational church will constitute the annual children's program. Each year the children of the city are invited to put on a program.

This year's program will consist of instrumental and vocal music, readings, and recitation by the various children on the program. All parents are invited to attend.

METHODISTS EARN
$85 ON ANNUAL PLAY

New London — The Methodist church realized $85 from its home talent play, "Birds Island," staged in the church Thursday evening.

The Rev. V. W. Bell will preach another of his sermons of the series, "Pearls of the Scriptures," Sunday morning. The text will be, "Believe in the Lord, Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

Nock, Helen Rohan, Rosella Thompson, Hubert Bocher

Refreshments—Dorothea Haskell, chairman, Gerhardt Ladwig, Walter Wochinski, Evelyn Popke.

The decoration committee met in the Knights of Columbus hall Friday afternoon to investigate decoration possibilities. This year's prom will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall, May 15. Committees will commence work immediately.

IMPROVEMENT IS NOTED IN STATES OF MIDDLE WEST

Babson Finds Conditions in Wisconsin Are "Fairly Good"

Babson Park, Fla. — Roger W. Babson, who is now at his winter home in Florida, today issued the third installment of his Annual Report on Business Conditions which treats of conditions in the thirteen Middle Western States.

"Conditions in most of the Middle Western States are very much better than last year at this time," says the statistician. "It is true that Iowa, Nebraska and certain other corn states have not yet benefited much from the higher prices, owing to the small corn crop. But certain wheat states, such as the Dakota and Minnesota, are in very much better condition than they have been for years. On my recent visit to Minnesota I found more optimism there than I have since 1915. Briefly the situation today in these thirteen states is as follows:

"MICHIGAN: Betterment is gradual. The state is rather quiet at the present time though there is some tendency to increase production and forces among the automobile plants. Road building has suffered the handicaps inseparable from winter conditions. This state, however, harvested a good crop of fruit, vegetables and cereals. The copper districts especially are feeling better. As copper prices promise to be higher in 1923 than in 1922, this will benefit Michigan. As to automobiles, I believe that most of the manufacturers will be satisfied if they can hold the 1922 output up to the 1924 figures.

"OHIO: Main tendencies slightly better. The automobile industry is operating considerably below capacity; but the tire business is very good. I spent considerable time in Cleveland, Akron, Cincinnati, Toledo and other Ohio cities and found most business men and bankers optimistic. Building, however, is not today as active as it was due largely to seasonal conditions—and there is some unemployment among the unskilled.

"ILLINOIS: Trend upward and fairly firm. Many industries are still quiet; but some mercantile lines are doing a better business. Meat packing, mining and other lines, which have been very slow the past three years, are looking upward. Steel furnaces which have been out of commission are again being started up. Road building is still holding strong.

"INDIANA: Moderate improvement appearing. Here the steel people are feeling better and are optimistic regarding 1923. I, however, was disappointed to see unemployment in the coal section of Southern Indiana. It is too bad that the workers in these mines will not take a broader view of the situation and realize that they are hurting themselves and their entire state by their present attitude.

"WISCONSIN: Trend slowly upward. Conditions are fairly good in Wisconsin. The boot and shoe industry, which has been quiet so long, is reviving; road building is very active; and general industry is on the mend. The automobile dealers are the only ones who are fearful as to 1923. The dairy interests, which are becoming very large, look for a good year in 1923.

"KENTUCKY: Conditions fairly good. This state shows no great change from a year ago; but all industries are feeling better. Employment gains are involved in iron and steel plants; lumber, tobacco and paper. Coal mining is much more active and some mines are now working full time. Even the textile industry in Kentucky is making a somewhat better showing.

"IOWA AND NEBRASKA: Recovery more marked. These states still have some unemployment. Road building and other outdoor activities have been impeded, and merchants are not yet spending any more money than necessary. Mortgage maturities in March will be an interesting test of conditions. The farmers of Iowa and Nebraska are awaiting the 1923 crop before purchasing with entire freedom. What the new crop

Punctured Speculation Makes Trade Seem Dull

BY JOHN T. FLYNN

New York, March 7.—The puncturing of the speculative inflation has given rise to the notion that business has slumped. It hasn't. The stock market has gotten a little of its equilibrium back. Along with this we are getting the financial and industrial reports on January and these show the usual post Christmas seasonal decline. Therefore, everybody says trade is slowing up. Trade is not slowing up. Some of the inflationary elements are running their course and trade is resuming its sober, orderly march toward generally improved conditions.

The iron and steel industry does not look like a waning business. A report has been printed that pig iron output was less in February—that it showed a falling off. Of course, it did. But the decline was only 10,000 tons. The gross production of February against the gross production of January. But February is a short month and has several holidays besides. The daily rate of production in February was actually 6000 tons more than in January.

Pig iron production on March 1 was at an annual rate of over 42,200,000 tons. This is 3 1/2 per cent over the performance of March last year, and compares with 40,861,000 tons, the record output in 1923.

The output of last month was 3,214,143 tons more than that of any other February in the history of the iron trade. Only in four months in 1923 has the daily rate ever been exceeded.

The heavy production appears to be at the expense of prices. Basic, foundry and malleable grades of pig iron have declined 50c. in the Pittsburgh district and some difficulty is being experienced in maintaining prices in other districts.

February in steel shipments was with the large companies better than February a year ago, itself a period of noted activity. Specifications against contracts have meantime piled up so that March operations appear well provided for, and what ever the status of the market, monthly quotas are being taken on der contracts. The only marked curtailment in operations is in the East. The United States Steel Corporation last month booked more than it shipped.

Another sharp increase was noted in our imports and exports in January. Europe brought more from us than she did a year ago—$67,000,000 more. That is a healthy sign. It is an evidence of the reviving buying power of that continent. Moreover, she sold us $15,000,000 more than she did in the preceding January. Altogether our exports were $50,000,000 greater than they were in the same month last year.

will be, no one knows; but the experts are prophesying a fairly good income for the farmer.

"MISSOURI: Fairly firm with trend upwards. A distinct increase industrial employment is noted. Skilled labor is being sought all though there is some unemployment amongst the unskilled. Increased prices for lead and zinc should give marked stimulus to this industry. The state received 12 per cent more for its corn crop and 37 per cent more for its oat crop than a year ago. Missouri should have a good business in 1923.

"NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA: Marked improvement. Business is always quiet in these states during the winter months. Hence there is still a surplus of labor. Fundamental conditions, however, are better than has been the case for years. Compared with a year ago, the value of South Dakota crops should show these increases: corn 6 per cent; wheat 91 per cent; oats 62 per cent and barley 79 per cent. In North Dakota wheat shows a gain in value over last year of 176 per cent and oats 119 per cent. The Dakotas have turned the corner and are looking upward.

"KANSAS AND MINNESOTA: Very favorable trend. Kansas and Minnesota are among the states which have made the most pronounced progress during the past twelve months. Both of these states are looking forward with optimism to 1923 and certainly prospects justify this better feeling.

"For the country at large, farmers should receive for the 1922-23 season about 2 per cent more money than they did the preceding year. This confirms the more optimistic attitude of last summer, but falls far short of some of the extravagant forecasts circulated at that time. The farmer's situation has undoubtedly improved, but he is not yet rolling in wealth. The best informed sales managers favor moderate campaigns in selected farming regions during the first part of 1923. Whether these campaigns should be continued throughout the year depends, of course, upon the new crops and their prices. Among the agricultural states which statistics suggest to be most favorable territory are Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas and Oklahoma. This improvement in the Middle West, even though not as great as reported, accounts in great measure for the better feeling throughout the country as a whole. This is being evidenced every week by the development of the Babson chart which now stands at 5 per cent above normal compared with 2 per cent below normal a year ago."

Vienna—For protection against burglars, apartment and house dwellers in this city make it a practice to keep watch dogs, mostly of the police variety. But the police dog apparently has no affiliation with postmen for in the past nine months 38 letter carriers have had to defend themselves against ferocious attack by these household pets.

When the matter came before the postmaster general for action, this official ruled the postmen could decide where they would not deliver letters, on account of the dog, and that the householder would have to call for his mail at the post office.

20 YEARS OF GOOD SERVICE IS BOAST OF COURTNEY MILL

Appleton Firm's Business Includes All States of the Middle West

Twenty years in the business of handling wool and yarns to the complete satisfaction of all customers, is the proud boast of Courtney Woolen Mills, owned by J. B. Courtney and Company. The firm, which has made Appleton its home the entire twenty years, is located on the north bank of the Fox river just east of the Fox River Paper Co. The best of service and speedy delivery of all orders is guaranteed by this company.

The work of the firm consists in carding wool for the manufacture of quilts and spinning wool into yarn. Its carded wool is in great demand in this vicinity and trips are made daily to the country, where the farmers' wives and daughters delight in using it for their quilts. Orders received for yarn from the entire middle-west. The wool used is some of the best produced by the sheep ranchers of the country and comes from all over the United States.

The firm handles much work the entire year and is especially rushed to get its products out during the busy months of the winter. Wool is produced in the spring.

The equipment and machinery of the mill is up-to-date in every respect and new machines are purchased as the times demand so that the fine record of the Courtney Woolen Mill, which has become known in the entire middle-west, is maintained.

SOUTHERN PINE PRICES DECREASE

The lumber market has a weaker aspect this week, owing to the softening of southern pineprices. However, the outlook has not been marred, and fundamental conditions generally show strength, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. The decline which southern pine has shown is attributed to the recent good weather in the South having speeded up shipments. Lumber is now being received by the retailers faster than it is being sold, with the result that they find it unnecessary to place new orders. The yards are finding business fairly good, according to the common report, but most of the material bought is for delivery only after weather conditions have improved, so the outward movement is much restricted. The prospects are that a few springlike days will stimulate building and other outdoor work considerably, and result in call for delivery of materials already bought. Deliveries will reduce yard stocks, and bring a material increase in wholesale trade. When this occurs the weakness recently developed by prices will undoubtedly disappear quickly.

The Douglas fir market has shown no important change. Prices are being well held at recent levels, the downward tendency that previously characterized them having to a large extent disappeared with the curtailment of production. However, there is little strength in the markets, orders being restricted to absolute requirements, and these not large. A market improvement is bound to occur, as weather conditions in the middle-western and eastern States begin to stimulate outdoor work.

The hardwood trade remains relatively slow. Prices are in some cases lower than a month or six weeks ago, but show no actual weakness. Buying by industrial consumers has recently been restricted by one cause or another, but the outlook is for early improvement in the furniture and flooring and interior trim trades.

The only public house in London with a pawnbroker's license, received its license from George IV, who visited the place incognito one night to watch a cock fight. It borrowed money from the landlord, leaving his watch as security. A few days later the landlord, much to his surprise, received the license.

ARMY AND NAVY TRYING TO HUSH LIQUOR SCANDLE

Public Opinion May Compell Punishment of Officers Smuggling in Liquor

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—The Beaufort liquor scandal creates one of the most difficult situations the army and navy ever had to deal with.

That a large quantity of whiskey was found by raiders who searched the transport, on her arrival at Norfolk from the West Indies, there is no question.

At least 40 cases are accounted for definitely, not to mention some which is believed to have been smuggled ashore during the excitement and still more which the owners managed to heave overboard.

What makes the case so hard to handle is that the intoxicants were found in the staterooms of army and perhaps of navy officers who were returning on the transport from duty in the West Indies, so that the board of inquiry cannot very convincingly report inability to determine responsibility.

This was what happened when a similar discovery was made on the Beaufort once before, and several months earlier on the naval collier Kittery.

The authorities also managed to hush these two previous affairs up at the time as may have been done on still other occasions which have not even yet come to light.

COURT MARTIAL LIKELY
In the present instance publicity forces action and a whitewash, if one is attempted, will be so obvious that a tremendous outcry is sure to be raised.

On the other hand, it promises to be almost impossible to get a court martial together which will penalize an offense recognized as almost universal in both the army and navy commissioned personnel.

The board of inquiry appointed by Rear Admiral Roger Welles, commandant of the Fifth Naval District, to investigate the Beaufort case is a mixed body composed of both army and navy men, since both services are involved. It will impose no punishments but simply return a finding of facts.

Then it will be the business of the army and navy respectively to take up the individual cases of such officers of each service as the report points to.

If the consequences of conviction were trifling the matter would not be the subject of so much of a flutter in military circles, but they are very serious professionally.

The unauthorized presence of liquor on a naval vessel is prohibited by definite regulations and navy officers who disregarded it automatically subject themselves to discipline.

ARMY MEN DIFFERENT
An army officer's position is different. Not being subject to naval rules, he can take liquor from a vessel foreign port on board a transport without laying himself open to any specific accusation, though the transport's officers would be bound to prevent it if aware he was doing so.

In the Beaufort case, however, all appearances are that an attempt at smuggling the wet goods ashore was being made.

This, if proved, will be a civil, not a military, offense, but the military authorities certainly will have to take measures against any officer who may be civilly convicted of rum smuggling, as guilty of conduct unbecoming his uniform.

The cashiering of anybody convicted thus is not beyond the bounds of possibility.

In army and navy circles, interest in the fate of those caught in the raid is at least equalled by curiosity concerning the identity of the "squarer" who furnished the information which let to it.

If discovered and a member of either service, his relations with his fellow officers will be far from pleasant henceforth.

TIGERTON PRIEST IS TRANSFERRED TO ALLOUEZ

The Rev. Joseph VanBogart, formerly pastor at Tigerton, assumed charge of St. Matthew church at Allouez, near Green Bay, Wednesday. The Rev. Fr. VanBogart is well-known in Appleton and was to have spoken here Ash Wednesday in St. Joseph church, but because of his transfer was unable to come to Appleton.

Monday night members of his parish at Tigerton accorded him a banquet and farewell reception. He had been stationed at Tigerton for the last nine years.

Father VanBogart will make his home at the McCormick Memorial home at Allouez for the present, as he also is to be chaplain of that institution. The parish, which was recently organized, is building a school and raising funds for the erection of a church. A rectory will be built later.

MODERN SAWMILL IS TO BE ERECTED AT NEOPIT

Menominee, Mich.—Engineers of the Prescott Machine Designing company have recently returned from Neopit where they drew up plans for a new government lumber mill to replace the one which was destroyed by fire last fall.

The new mill will cost approximately $200,000. The building will be built according to lines especially fitted for the machinery to be installed. The machine designs are said to be the most modern ever attempted for lumber mill use. Plans are now in Washington awaiting approval of the department of the interior. Contracts will be let soon after the department of the government is announced.

Wisconsin University Far Outstripped By Neighboring Schools

(This is another of a series of articles prepared by Theodore Kronshage, Jr., of Milwaukee, president of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, describing the condition of the state school.)

BY THEODORE KRONSHAGE, JR., President, Board of Regents, University of Wisconsin

The University of Wisconsin has not had a dollar which it could spend for educational buildings during the past six years. It has not had a dollar to spend for other purposes since 1913. These are facts. Nevertheless, upon the books of the state the University is charged with land and buildings in the amount of $810,416.

Let us analyze this amount. Included in this figure is $150,000 for an University Extension building at Milwaukee, which the Regents were not permitted to spend. It includes $80,000 for an addition to the chemical laboratory. The sum was so small that its use would have constituted a waste of the state's funds.

There is also included in this amount $191,500 for boilers, tunnels, electric equipment, water mains, etc., construction made necessary by the building of the Wisconsin General Hospital, but nevertheless charged to the University. The balance of the appropriations went for various buildings connected with the agricultural experiment and branch stations and certain repairs, remodeling, improvements, and lands connected with the university plant.

NO MONEY FOR CLASSROOMS
Not one dollar was available to relieve the classroom congestion.

While the state of Wisconsin has for 12 years refused to erect buildings needed by her State University, her neighbors on all sides have appropriated millions. They all have the same problem—enrollment doubled since the war. They met the problem and Wisconsin didn't.

To realize this fact study the chart of building appropriations of neighboring state universities since 1919. Look at the Michigan column—more than $6,000,000 appropriated to the State University for educational buildings and land in five years—not including $1,500,000 for the state agricultural college, a separate institution.

Yes, Wisconsin has built a state hospital and it isn't represented on the chart. But, in addition to large hospitals already existing, Michigan built a new hospital also and that isn't in the chart. Michigan's new hospital cost $3,558,466 and Wisconsin's cost $1,649,424.

If hospital figures were added to Michigan's column her appropriations would amount to almost $10,000,000 plus $1,500,000 for her agricultural college.

But the Wisconsin General Hospital is not primarily an educational building. It is a public service institution, containing over 300 beds for the state's suffering poor. No classes for the 8,000 students can be held in it. It will also be of great value to a four-year medical college, but right now the University has only 180 students enrolled in the first two years of a pre-medical course.

Besides, the legislature did not directly tax the people to build the hospital. The money came from a surplus in the soldiers' bonus fund.

Then look at the Illinois column, with more than $4,500,000; the Minnesota column, with more than $6,000,000; the Iowa column, with nearly $4,500,000; the Ohio column, with over $3,500,000; all for educational buildings and land at their respective universities and all exclusive of very large new hospital developments.

Have you stopped to think why these states are appropriating such comparatively large amounts for their state universities? They are doing it because two decades ago Wisconsin demonstrated to them that state universities pay the states which support them. Wisconsin proved with her own State University that an investment in a state university produces millions of dollars in dividends.

No war, no discouragement, no hard times induced these other states to abandon their universities. They knew better. They have gone on—over the top, leaving Wisconsin in the rear.

What are the immediate needs of our University? What buildings must we have right now? Here is the list.

1. An addition to Bascom Hall, built according to the same plans submitted and approved in 1913. This addition will be adequate if Bascom Hall is otherwise relieved.

2. An addition to the Library to provide additional reading and study space for students.

3. An addition to the Chemistry building. I have told you about conditions there.

4. An Education building to house the School of Education and relieve Bascom Hall. The teaching profession is the largest and most important profession in the state and should get its training and inspiration in schools provided by the state and not in private institutions.

5. Completion of the Wisconsin High School building, the laboratory of the School of Education. The first unit was authorized in 1913.

6. An Administration building, to relieve Bascom Hall, and to gather under one roof the University's administrative activities, now scattered all over the campus.

7. An addition to the Engineering shops, the first units of which were authorized in 1913.

8. Completion of the Extension building. The part now standing was built in 1912.

These buildings with the utilities, such as boilers, tunnels, etc., are the immediate, the crying needs, and will cost approximately $3,000,000. But we are not asking for this total amount at once. We are asking the state to do what other states have done.

In 1919 Minnesota appropriated over $600,000 a year for ten years (over $6,000,000) to its state university. We are asking Wisconsin to appropriate $500,000 a year for six years. Wisconsin can afford it.

A few months ago, New York's great governor, "Al" Smith, speaking to his people who know him best and love him most, advised them to invest in education. "Educational investments come high, very high. But they yield the very highest dividends."

LUMBERING OPERATIONS WILL END ON MARCH 15

Green Bay—Lumbering operations will be completed by the middle of March, according to timber cruisers passing through here.

The loggers plan their closing operation so as to cut no more than they can haul out of the woods. A break-up is likely to occur any time after March 15, which date is decided upon by the large operators to terminate the winter's work.

The winter has been good for logging conditions, and probably better in most localities than in the past 20 years, the lumbermen say. The cold spell set in early, and ice roads were well under construction early in December. The cutting and hauling operations continued unimpeded through the winter, with the exception of a few warm days about February 1.

THE COBRA CUT

When Rudolph Valentino appeared with his sideburns cut in the above manner, friends too polite to suggest that he shaved himself dubbed it "the cobra cut."

THREE CANDIDATES FOR NOMINATION FILE PAPERS

Three candidates have filed papers for reelection to county offices with John Hanisch, county clerk up to the present time. Judge Fred V. Heineman is seeking reelection as county judge, and Judge A. M. Spencer again is in the race for municipal judge. The other candidate is A. G. Meating, who is working to succeed himself as superintendent of schools.

Spain At Last Gets Author Of Swindle

Spanish police authorities may be a little slow, but they are persistent. For after 50 years of hide and seek they have finally succeeded in apprehending the author of what is known to postal employees of the great "Spanish swindle."

The man is Gen. Ramon de Santa Clara, alias Rafael de Santos, whose letters have been received by a number of Appleton residents. The letters of distress of this man, if he is the same person, have been coming here at least as long as Postmaster William H. Zuehlke has been in the department, and that is 25 years. While the postmaster does not know of anyone here who has ever fallen a victim of the swindle, he says that several times persons were practically on the verge of doing so.

The details of the scheme used by the swindler seldom varied. He seemed always to be getting into trouble with the authorities and being held in jail in default of bail. To thousands he has made the offer of giving away one-third of his fortune, $360,000 in American money, which was said to be hidden in a secret pocket of a portmanteau. The condition was that the recipient forward enough money to bail him out of jail where he said he was being kept indefinitely. The swindler is said to have amassed a considerable fortune by this scheme.

ANTIGO CONTRACTOR GETS SEWER JOB ON BID OF $26,855.90

Council Awards Contract for Construction of Third Ward Sewer System

Menasha—The contract for the construction of the third ward sewer system was awarded at the adjourned meeting of the common council Friday evening to E. J. Wilson company, Appleton. The bid submitted by him was $26,855.90, which was approximately $600 lower than the next lowest bidder. The contract was awarded on provision that all the easements are secured.

The firms submitting bids were Grav, Robinson Construction company, Manitowish, R. J. Wilson company, Appleton; Rural Construction company, Menasha; J. M. Donahue, Stevens Point; and E. J. Yahr of Antigo. Among the streets included in the contract are High, Winnebago and Nicolet-blvd.

The fire and city hall committee composed of Aldermen Herron, J. Schler, A. W. Bortez and William Meyer was authorized to draw plans and specifications for a new police station and to submit them to Wisconsin industrial commission for approval. The building will be one story, 29 by 40 feet in dimensions and will be constructed of pressed brick.

City Attorney H. Fitzgibbon was instructed to notify Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company to build a new crossing on Eight-st in the Second ward.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the aldermen attended a meeting of Henry J. Lenz post of the American legion at Eagle hall to which they received a special invitation.

LITTLE INTEREST IN BASEBALL LOOP

Menasha—W. H. Pierce, president of Menasha Baseball association, did not go to Fond du Lac Friday evening for the reason no meeting was held for reorganizing the Wisconsin Baseball league. The meeting was called off because of lack of interest. Now looks as if independent ball will be played this coming season. Mr. Pierce said Saturday. He declared, however, that the organization of a league had not been abandoned and there still is a possibility of the project being carried out.

It is generally conceded that Menasha will be represented on the diamond the coming summer either with an independent of league team and that practically all the old favorites will be in action.

FIVE BOWLERS WIN BIG SLICE OF PRIZE MONEY

Menasha—Local bowlers received Friday the cash prizes they won at the state tournament at Fond du Lac. The total amount was $190.75. Del Marshaw and Edward Clifford, who constituted one of the teams, received $50 as their share of the funds. The rest of the money was divided between Harry Gossett, Joseph Muench and Edward Oertgen.

Local bowlers are planning to participate in the bowling tournaments to be held in Milwaukee next month.

ASK MENASHA POLICE TO WATCH FOR CHECK FORGERS

Menasha—The criminal bureau of the Wisconsin Bankers association of Milwaukee has sent out notices to banks, police departments and sheriffs, copies of which have been received in Menasha, for the apprehension of two check forgers for whom a reward of $25 each is offered. They are suspected also of automobile thefts and some of their victims are hardware men and garage proprietors. Both worked in Rio Feb. 17 and since that time at Fall River, Columbus, Beaver Dam and Fox Lake. They are considered desperate characters.

MENASHA PLAYERS WATCH APPLETON-FONDY GAME

Menasha—Menasha high school basketball team falls to secure a game Friday evening. As a result several members attended the Appleton-Fond du Lac game at Appleton. Menasha team has lost very few games this season at the sectional basketball tournament at Appleton next week. It has about completed its training.

CHILD WANDERS AWAY

Menasha—A 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Metoxen, Kaukauna, wandered away from home Friday morning and was found by relatives near Hotel Menasha. She had been missing for several hours.

NIGHT COUGH QUICKLY RELIEVED

This is the substance of a letter received from H. W. Webb, Quincy, Ill., "I coughed a great deal, especially at night. Tried almost everything and have found nothing to equal POLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. One dose relieved my cough and I rested well all night. One of the largest selling cough medicines in the world. Contains no opiates. Safe for children. Inset upon Foley's. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere."

CHURCH WILL GIVE GOUNOD PROGRAM

Methodist Choir and Musicians Will Present Group of Selections Sunday

Special to Post-Crescent Weyauwega—On Sunday evening at the Methodist church there will be a concert from the works of Charles Gounod. Following is the program: "Unfold Ye Portals," (Redemption) organ prelude.

"Father of All," hymn, congregation. "Naxareth," cornet solo, Charles George. "O Divine Redeemer," soprano solo, Mrs. Hans Peterson.

"Serenade," violin, cello, flute, organ. "Send Out Thy Light," choir.

"Sanctus," (St. Cecilia), soprano solo, Mrs. George T. Classon.

A hymn, congregation. "Mardi Gras," organ postlude.

Everyone is welcome to attend this concert.

Mrs. Lubudde will sing at the services at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The Girls club also will sing and the Rev. J. M. Kellock has an attractive sermon on the subject, "Is America the Queen of the Nation?"

On Friday evening the last basketball game of the season will be played at the school, with the Berlin high school team. The girls' team will play the Waupaca girls' team.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Quade.

Mrs. Herman Rhode and Mrs. Carl Wilhelm entertained the Ladies Altar society at the home of the latter Tuesday afternoon.

The inauguration ceremonies for President Coolidge were heard by a number of groups in the village. Mr. and Mrs. George Moody opened their home to the high school students and teachers, and a houseful listened to the president's oath of office and address, which came in very clearly.

At Waupaca-asylum, the loud speakers of the patients' dining room and all enjoyed the "doings" at Washington, D. C. Many of the neighbors and some of the villagers were also there.

Thirty-two friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Walrath gave them a pleasant surprise Wednesday evening, when, with well filled baskets, they called to spend the evening at their home. The evening was spent in playing cards and other games.

Mrs. Fern Larkee entertained Mrs. D. Jenny's Sunday school class Wednesday evening.

Miss Inez Smith, who has been visiting in Fond du Lac, returned Tuesday, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Anna Shontz, who will spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith.

Mrs. Russell Williams entertained the Usona club at her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. C. D. McCarthy spent Tuesday at Waupun.

Mrs. Gust Kobelski returned from Waupaca Tuesday. She submitted to an operation at the hospital there.

WAUPACA ENJOYED HARPISST CONCERT

Entertainment Course Conducted by Women and Pupils Ends With Success

Special to Post-Crescent Waupaca—A program of unusual charm was given Tuesday night at the high school auditorium by the De Marco harp ensemble before audience that filled every seat. This was the last number of the lecture course under direction of the Womans club and the high school seniors. The course has been satisfactory from the standpoint of entertainment and financially also. The DeMarco company is considered one of the best that has appeared here and many expressed a desire to have them booked another year.

The personnel of the alumni basketball team to oppose the high school team Saturday night will be: H. Durant, center; E. Tabor and Norman Peterson, guards; Barney Pommer and E. Rasmussen, forwards.

C. Atkinson and W. Krunen will probably get into action sometime during the game. This is the last game of the season and the price of admission has been cut.

William Wagner, W. Nelson has sold his home to Wesley Ebbe of Marshfield and formerly of Waupaca. Mr. Ebbe will move his family from Marshfield and occupy the property.

George Murray's appointment as postmaster at the Wisconsin Veterans Home has been confirmed by the action of the senate upon nomination by President Coolidge. Mr. Murray has held the office a long time and has won the favor of the people at the home.

NEENAH PLAYS IN RAGGED FORM BUT WHIPS RIPPONITES

Changes in Lineup Fail to Pep Up Neenah Team in Its Last Game

Neenah—For the second time this season the Neenah high school basketball team defeated the Ripon high school team Friday evening by a score of 18 to 5 in the Roosevelt gymnasium. This was Neenah's last game of their regular schedule and was far from the excellent exhibition they have given in their other games.

Something was radically wrong as the boys could not achieve the speed that won their other games this season.

Change after change failed to make an improvement and were it not for lucky shots, the score would have been close. Ripon brought down a snappy team which put up a good battle against the locals.

The summary:

Jilted Love
Claims Men
Are Fickle

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Before I knew them well, I used to think that Ruth was a bit severe with Tubby.

They had been engaged for three years then, and Tubby was in no visible hurry to finish law school and get married. And in the beginning, I decided that Ruth's sudden fits of silence and gloom were because she despised of becoming Tub's bride before middle age.

But I learned better. Ruth was a born wet blanket.

"Come on, cheer up, old crepe-hanger," Tub would say to her cheerfully as a crowd of us started off to a dance or on an automobile ride.

"If I'm not going to spend ten dollars taking a girl out on a party unless she's going to enjoy it!"

This was Tub's somewhat crude idea of a joke. Tub was a bit of a rowdy, but he was invariably cheerful, and he seemed to adore Ruth in spite of her moods.

We had all started out one Sunday afternoon to drive thirty miles to a quaint little town for dinner.

Ruth was silent at first, but gradually she cheered up and began to join in our off-key singing of "Sweet Adeline" as we jolted through country lanes.

We were all very hungry when we reached the Blue Patriot Inn. There was a table d'hôte dinner, with a choice of fried chicken or Porterhouse steak for an entire Tub, who loved to eat, couldn't decide which he wanted.

"Bring me both," he finally said to the head waitress, who was taking our order. "Bring everything on the bill of fare and I'll show you a type of a man who knows how to eat."

"Thomas," said Ruth in a dreadful voice, "I am not going to sit at this table while you make a show of yourself."

I sat next to Tub and I heard his low answer.

"Then I guess you're not going to sit here," he said, because I said I'd eat everything on the card from soup to nuts and I'm going to do what I said."

Ruth got up and stalked out of the dining room.

Tubby didn't follow at once. We all tried to make conversation. But no one was gay or talkative. Ruth had spoiled the party as usual.

After about ten minutes Tub got up and went out into the sitting room where Ruth was playing "I Want to Be Happy" on the old piano. Presently he returned with her.

The waitress had served him with both chicken and steak, as he had ordered, but he ate only the steak and when nurse pie, ice cream and chocolate pudding were set down before him, he ate only the pie.

Ruth's gloom had changed to an air of high triumph of course. But all the way home, on that thirty-mile drive, she didn't utter a single word. I didn't see her again for about six weeks, and then only by accident. I do not exactly pine for Ruth's society.

The first thing I noticed was that she was wearing neither Tub's fraternity pin nor his ring.

"Engagement broken?" I asked. She nodded.

"Yes," she said. "I gave Tubby back his ring, but it was really he who broke the engagement. He said he didn't understand me and that I was too serious-minded for a clown like him. I could see that for some reason or other he had made up his mind not to marry me. But I guess some men are just fickle."

THE NATURE OF MILK AS A FOOD

Milk is often stated to be a perfect food. By this we mean that it contains all the essential elements for normal human growth and development.

The adequacy of a food or diet depends chiefly on its containing:

1. Enough of the right sort of material to build up and repair the living tissues of the body. These body-building substances in the food are called proteins, and are found especially in milk, meat, fish, eggs, and in certain vegetables, especially beans and peas.

2. Enough substances to furnish the required energy of the body. Fats, starches and sugars are the chief energy foods, and are transformed in the body into energy for work and into body heat.

3. A variety of mineral substances, which are needed in the growth and functioning of the parts of the body, such as the skeleton, the brain, the blood, etc.

4. An adequate amount of certain substances whose nature is not yet fully known but whose presence in the diet has been demonstrated to affect body growth in animals or man. These substances, known as vitamins, growth determinants, or the unknown dietary factors, are therefore essential elements in our food.

5. No substance poisonous to the average individual nor one which will not allow of normal digestive processes.

Milk as a source of energy, or as fuel for the body, compares most favorably with other foods. The energy value of a quart of milk is about equivalent to that of a pound of lean meat or to eight eggs. As a source of energy cereals, and, therefore, cereal and milk is the ideal combination of foods to furnish body energy in childhood.

Calcium salts (lime), supplied in our food, are necessary not only for bone formation but for the development of the important organs of the body, especially the glands of internal secretion.

Of all foodstuffs milk is the cheapest and most abundant source of calcium and milk also provides other important mineral salts, such as potassium and phosphorus. Therefore, since growth is measured by bone formation, and since the child must have a steady abundant supply of these essential minerals, milk should be included in every child's diet.

Household Hints

HELPFUL HINTS
Add a few drops of oil of sassafras to the gasoline in which you clean your gloves or collars and the oil will be deodorized.

DO NOT POLISH
Enameled furniture will stand careful washing and is better off without any furniture polish.

KEEP KNIVES SHARP
Tools that are in good condition make your work much easier. Keep your knives sharp by always having a stone or steel sharpener at hand.

BETTER FLAVOR
The flavor of preserved fruit is much better if the fruit is opened an hour or so before it is to be eaten.

Safety Hints

KEEP MATCHES FROM KIDDIES

Millions of dollars are lost every year, and many people, especially children, are injured by careless handling of matches. Children should be taught to leave matches alone. Even a safety match, when lighted can do as much damage as the other kind. Smokers often thoughtlessly toss lighted matches into inflammable material. We all should be careful.

"Wait here," I said to my sister and I left her abruptly, disregarding her surprised and anxious look. She did not seem to understand what she had done that we all should leave her so abruptly to her own devices. I remember thinking, little Mail-Quise, to myself, that Karl was also getting too lenient with her, and my lips tightened rather grimly as I thought of what John would do with her if she went into one of these tantrums.

Arriving at my room, I took the jewel case from my bureau drawer and hurried back to Alice. She was sitting just where I had left her, and had the same look of indecision upon her face.

"Here are the jewels, Alice," I exclaimed as I dropped them into her lap. "Now I hope as you have got them your wish you will not make me any more trouble over them. I solemnly promised Karl I would never part with them, and I gave him this promise not so much because they were intrinsically valuable, but because I knew they meant so much to him. It may not mean much to you, but to me promises are binding, and I considered this one so binding that I even braved John's great displeasure to keep it."

"God knows I don't want this necklace. Ever since I have known the pearls were real I have been made unhappy by them. They have meant the traditional tears to me and this is chiefly because you have been so unreasonable about them."

"I cannot understand your attitude, but the why or wherefore you should feel as you do, hereafter will have no effect upon me. I gave them into your keeping and I hope they will not bring you as much annoyance and sorrow as they have to me. I never want to look upon them again."

I was so angry I had not noticed that both John and Karl had come into the room and was greatly surprised when Karl came quickly for ward, and picked up the case from Alice's lap. With it in his hand he turned to me, standing beside my husband, who had put his arm protectively about me.

"I am sorry, Leslie," Karl said decidedly, "that you have had to break your promise to me and let this case and what it contains go out of your possession. Those pearls were yours. They have been yours ever since I bought the first one as a boy, and I hoped that they would go from you to your daughter and so on down after you and I should both be dead."

"They meant so much of my youth to me."

"I can see however that retaining them would mean too much unhappiness to you so I take them back into my own keeping. They can never belong to Alice. Immediately I shall put them in a safe place, and I shall add a codicil to my will leaving them to John or John's daughter and yours. There they will rest until my death or until Alice comes to her senses and asks you and your husband's forgiveness for all the trouble she has made you."

"When you married your husband, Leslie, my love for you became friend ship. Otherwise I would have never married your sister."

"I shall remember this unseemly outburst of temper on the part of Alice with great concern, because I know that unless she tries to curb her unreasonable passions they will lead her into dire consequences."

Adventures
Of The Twins

The Fierce Green Dragon

This is the rest of the story about the purple beech tree that was changed into a green dragon.

Just because it had seen a picture in a fairy tale book and took a silly notion that it wanted adventures!

Well—after everybody and everything had run away from it except the fishes and one frog, the dragon kept on going and going and lashing its green tail and rolling its six jam-pot eyes.

But one of the ever rolling side ways saw the frog.

"What ho!" said the dragon. "Why do you stand and stare, dum my? Why don't you run?"

"I can't run," said the frog. "I only hop."

"Then why don't you hop," said the dragon. "Why should I?" blinked the frog.

"I'm very comfortable."

"Aren't you afraid?" asked the dragon in surprise and blowing all his three breaths so hard it seemed like three furnaces.

"Nope," said the frog. "I'm only afraid of owls and pussy cats."

"Stupid! Stupid!" went the dragon. "I can cook you with my blow."

"Oh, go on," said the frog. "I'm all wet and I'm cold bloned as well. All the fire in your noses couldn't hurt me any. Pooh!"

"Well I declare!" said the dragon. "Such impudence! And from a little blabbermouth like you. Say—that book must be wrong. It said exactly that and everything ran like sixty when a dragon came along. I'll go back and see."

So back he went lumbering and puffing and dragging his long heavy tail behind him.

But when he got back—now what do you suppose?

In the exact spot where he had been growing was another little tree, a lovely little purple beech tree with mouse-gray bark.

Two dicker birds were singing in its branches and a catbird was crawling softly up making big loops of itself. A little mouse nibbled daintily at its roots.

"Hi, there!" said the dragon. "That's my place. Get out!"

"I don't have to," said the tree. "The Fairy Queen sent me here. You only made one wish. You didn't wish that your place couldn't be filled. It is filled and I'm it."

"The idea!" said the dragon. "Well, I wish you joy. Being a tree and having no adventures is a dull business. I'm off."

But two things worried him. Not quite everything in the world was afraid of him—the frog wasn't. It was like wearing time new clothes, but having a pin sticking in you. It took all the fun out.

The other thing was that his place was taken. He thought he'd be missed, but he wasn't.

So the poor old silly dragon hid in a mountain valley all alone.

"Oh, dear! What's the use of three heads and a long tail!" he wailed. "I want to be a nice tree again. I was a goose to make such a silly wish."

But I'll tell you the end of the story. The Fairy Queen hunted him up and waved her wand again.

And now there are two purple beeches and one dragon.

And I think it's better, don't you? (To Be Continued.)

Health Hints

THE FOUR VITAMINS

Vitamins are scattered through foods. Mrs. Mann learned that heat destroys vitamin in some forms, and for this reason it is well to safeguard the health of the family by providing each day some uncooked vegetable, like cabbage, lettuce, onions, potatoes, spinach, etc.

Vitamin A is most abundant in butter, unskimmed milk, young sprouts, green leafy vegetables and egg yolk.

Children grow exceptionally well when fed foods rich in vitamin A. Vitamin B helps in the control of the nerves and in overcoming fatigue. Whole grain cereals and most vegetables are rich in vitamin B.

Vitamin C prevents scurvy, and aids very much in keeping the body fit and well. Fresh fruits and vegetables are the best sources.

Vitamin D, the latest one to be discovered, is found in egg yolk and cod liver oil. This vitamin adds that bottled halves be given half a raw egg yolk in the milk for the day.

Mothers of breast fed babies should take the egg yolk instead of giving it to the babies.

FOND DU LAC EVENS SCORE WITH ORANGE, 22 TO 16

Appleton High Five
Loses Hard Contest
Marred By Fouling

Superior Shooting of Fond du Lac Squad Puts Kevin's Quint to Rout in Final Tilt

Fond du Lac high school basketball team evened the season's score with Appleton high school five Friday night at Army Gym by winning one of the hardest-fought contests on the local courts this season by a 22 to 16 count. The hard fight of both teams combined with several close decisions by the referee resulted in 19 personal fouls during the game, ten of which were on Fond du Lac.

The victory was a costly one for the Fountain City boys for Capt. Moser was taken out of the game with a broken nose near the close of the first half after playing a stellar game at forward. With the Oshkosh tournament a week off Fondy is especially hard hit.

DOLAN STARS FOR FONDY
Dolan and Manis starred for the invaders. Dolan at running guard played the best floor game of the evening, beside dropping in two pretty ringers and a free throw Manis was high scorer of the contest caging three baskets and four free throws for ten of his team's twenty-two points.

Ashman's work featured the local's play, the lanky center scoring both of Appleton's baskets on followup shots and counting two free throws. Other features of the Orange play were the foul shooting of Kneip who garnered four points in the five attempts from the foul line, and the all-around play of Reetz, who left a sickbed to take his place in the Orange lineup. Fondy scored 7 baskets to Appleton's 2. Soli of Appleton and Hanson of Fondy were removed from the game in the last half because of personal fouls. The Orange quint held the lead at the end of the first quarter by a 5 to 3 count but after that period Fondy gradually drew away and was never headed. The score at the half stood 10 to 9 for the Red and White and the end of the third quarter gave them a 16 to 11 lead. Appleton's passing was wild near the close of the game and long shots from all angles of the court fell short.

SECONDS WIN FROM VOCATIONAL FIVE
The second team defeated Coach Eldie Packard's Vocational school five 7 to 3 in a hard game. With five minutes to play the score stood 3 all. The game which was cut short to allow the Fondy team to catch an early train home, was featured by the poor shooting of Ba.lov's boys and the tight defense of the Vocational five. Ritten and McCanna were the best shots for the seconds, while the defensive work of Eggert helped gain the victory. Reetz, Muenster and Welland were the best bets of the Packard quint.

FIRST HALF
Dolan fouled Bowly on the first play of the main game when pretty teamwork had carried the ball under the Fondy basket and the Orange forward caged one freethrow. After Manis had missed a free try on Reetz's foul, Capt. Moser scored the first basket of the game for his team on a pretty try from midfloor. Soli fouled Manis under the Orange basket but he missed both tries from the foul line.

After Manis had missed a free throw on a technical foul on Appleton and Kneip had returned the compliment on Hutchin's personal, Bowly added a point to the Orange score on Manis' foul. Ashman caged the first basket for the Kevinmen on a short follow-up shot and Appleton took the lead. Ashman missed a free throw on Moser's foul but Bowly sank one on Dolan's foul as the gun ended the quarter. Hanson fouled Soli on Bowly's foul as the second quarter started but Bowly returned the compliment on Manis' foul. Dolan sidestepped the Appleton first-line defense and dropped a basket from the side of the floor near the center to tie the score. After Manis had missed two free tries on Soli's personal foul and Bowly one on Hanson's foul, Manis broke through the Appleton defense and put Fondy ahead with a shot from under the hoop. Kneip counted two free throws on Hutchin's foul and again tied the score. Capt. Moser of Fondy was injured and Appleton received a technical foul when Fondy took time out to care for their man. Acting-Capt. Ashman missed the free throw and Manis regained Fondy's lead with a shot from under the hoop. The half ended with the Orange playing a ragged defensive game.

SECOND HALF
Kneip missed a try at the basket and Ashman's second follow-up tied the score for the Orange for the last time. Reetz missed two free throws on Watson's foul and Ashman missed his try on a double foul. Hanson made his half of the foul.

Manis made one of two tries on Soli's foul and added another point on Soli's fourth personal. Ashman made one of two tries on Hanson's foul and Dolan dropped one in on Ashman's foul. Manis dropped a pretty basket from the side as the quarter ended.

Dolan dribbled through the entire Orange squad for an easy shot as the last quarter started. Manis made one of two attempts on Pfeiffer's foul. Ashman hit the same one by Hutchins. Cookson made one of two tries on Hanson's fourth personal and Watson caged Fondy's last basket from the side of the floor. The Appleton quint passed the ball around wildly and missed long shots from all angles of the floor as Fondy started a clever

From The Sidelines

The refereeing in the Appleton-Fondy contest was the closest ever seen in the valley and it was easy to see that either team was used to it. Nine fouls were called by Referee Chamberlain and the game was slowed up considerably by the constant march from one free throw line to the other.

The Appleton high school band was out in full force and some real "peppy" music kept the large crowd in good spirits. Tubby's boys sure "know their stuff" and should go big next year.

Ashman played his usual stellar game for the Orange quint, but the palm for real loyalty must go to "Chub" Reetz, who left a sick bed after a severe illness of two days Friday afternoon to hold down his guard position against the Red and White. Although it was plainly noticeable that he was in poor condition he fought his hardest during the entire tilt and deserved the applause of the spectators.

Fondy has a running guard called Irish Dolan who would look good on any high school tea mot the state. If he does not make all-out tournament team at Oshkosh, it will be because of a broken leg or something like it. His team mate, Capt. Benny Moser, has already had his tussle with the jinx and come out second best. Moser, one of the stars of last year's state champs, broke his nose Friday night and will find the going tough at Oshkosh. In the words of the sideline gang, it was a lucky "break" for Fondy's opponents in the Oshkosh tournament.

OHIO AND INDIANA
BATTLE FOR TITLE

Big Ten Basketball Championship Hinges on Tonight's Game

Chicago—Whether Ohio State wins the Western conference basketball title depends on the outcome of its clash Saturday night with Indiana at Bloomington. With nine games won and one lost the Buckeyes, if defeated, are at least sure of a tie for the honor.

Indiana, second in the conference standing, has amassed 355 points in its 11 games, the best record of the Big Ten. It also has the individual game record with 51 points made against Michigan last Monday.

Ohio State's showing has been nearly as good as that of the Hoosiers. In ten games it has registered 298 points but has a better defense record than the Indiana quintet.

Indiana can only tie for the title by a victory over the Buckeyes, who must also then lose to Wisconsin in the final game next week.

Only secondary honors or questions of individual supremacy are involved in Saturday night's remaining games, Northwestern against Iowa at Iowa City and Chicago against Michigan at Ann Arbor.

MUNN DUMPS CANADIAN IN TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Cleveland, O.—Wayne "Big" Munn, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship made quick work of Wallace Duguid, Canadian title-holder, in the feature of a wrestling carnival here Friday night. Using his famous crotch and half Nelson, Munn threw Duguid in straight falls in nine and two minutes.

Ed (Strangler) Lewis and William Demetral wrestled one hour to a draw Mike Romano defeated Hassan Giles in 14 minutes with a toe hold.

BADGERS SWAMP IRISH IN INDOOR TRACK MEET

Madison—Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame in a dual track meet here Friday night 61 2-3 to 24 1-3. The visitors took only two firsts in the pole vault and half mile race, the former won by Harrington, at 12 feet 6 inches and the latter won by Cox in 2:02 1-5. McGinnis, Wisconsin, topped two firsts, winning the 40 yard hurdles in 35 3-5 seconds and the high jump at 6 feet 4 inches. Wisconsin won the mile relay race in 3:25 2-5.

stalling game. Manis dropped a free throw on Reetz's foul and Kneip made two on Manis' foul as the final whistle blew.

FIFTEEN YEARS HAS DRIVEN MANY STARS
OUT OF BASEBALL

Only Nine of the Heroes of 1915 Campaign Still Remain in the Big Show

New York—Time brings many changes. So runs an adage. And it may well be applied to the sporting world, too, where a constant shifting of celebrities is ever noticeable; where new deeds and feats obliterate the old; where a star today is but a "has-been" tomorrow, and where Old Doctor Time holds festive sway.

Fifteen years ago, for instance, Washington, Cleveland and a few others had never won a pennant; 15 years ago, the wily Connie Mack didn't know what it meant to pilot a consistent cellar outfit and—

ONLY NINE STILL LEFT
Fifteen years ago there were but a mere handful of players in the majors who still may be seen on big league diamonds during the coming season. Facts is, but nine are apt to answer the roll call who have served continuously since 1910. The American boasts six, the National two, while one has tolled in both leagues.

Here's the selective list: Cobb, Detroit; Eddie Collins and Harry Hooper, White Sox; Speaker, Cleveland; Johnson, Washington; John Collins, Red Sox; Wheat, Brooklyn; and McInnis and Marquard, Braves. Cobb has been up the longest. The Georgian arrived in 1905. And he has been with the Tigers ever since. Next comes Eddie Collins. The newly appointed manager of the Comiskey brigade paved his first big league game with the Athletics in 1906 under the red cap of Sullivan. Then there's Walter Johnson. Sir Walter landed in 1907. Then follow Speaker and Marquard, 1908, McInnis, Wheat and Hooper, 1909 and John Collins, 1910.

It is interesting to note that out of the group only two are pitchers. Johnson and Marquard, McInnis and Eddie Collins are the infielders and the "best cavort in the outfield. Three of the bunch, Cobb, Speaker and Eddie Collins, are now managers. Obviously, the baseball star of each of the nine is now beginning to fade. But it's not surprising. For 15 years at least, in bigtime competition is quite a leap past the average career of a major leaguer.

McInnis, for one, is slipping fast, though still capable of putting up a fair game. Marquard, too, seems to be just around the old corner; from the finish, while John Collins of late has been used mostly in utility roles. The others, however—Cobb, Speaker, Eddie Collins, Hooper, Wheat and even the sterling Johnson—appear to be at least a couple more seasons of active participation under the major spotlight. They're all that's really left of the old guard of 15 years ago still performing at a pretty fair clip.

Yep, time brings many changes. Even along the sporting right of way.

COLUMBUS CAGERS
TRIM FIRST WARD

Columbus school took a hard tilt from First ward in a grade school league basketball game Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 13 to 8. Both teams played a fine defensive game but Columbus showed superior shooting ability and man tained a slight lead. W. Moore and W. Rhode starred for the winners and R. Heible and L. Grunz showed the best form for the losers. First Ward lined up with Shannon and Heible at forwards; Peterson, center, L. Grunz and Gochauer guards. Buxton and Lather also played for the First warders. Klockstein and W. Moore played forwards for Columbus; Rhode, center, Doerschner and Kranz, guards.

DAZZY VANCE FAILS TO SIGN BROOKLYN CONTRACT

Clewwater, Fla.—Daddy Vance, the leading pitcher in the major leagues last season, has not yet signed a Brooklyn contract.

Charles H. Ebbets, president of the club, who announced Vance had come to terms last Sunday, made a mistake. The pitcher who was reported to have suggested and accepted a three year contract at $50,000 in all, merely signed a paper agreeing to sign.

Yesterday, however, when the real document was offered, he saw and objected to the ten days release clause. Ebbets says he can not under baseball law remove the clause as no contract without it can be approved by the baseball commission.

Predicts Bright Future

Eleanor Garratti, Youthful California Miss, Has Earmarks of Coming Swimming Star

ELEANOR GARRATTI

Eleanor Garratti, 15-year-old mermaid from California, stands out as one of the best young swimmers to appear on the horizon in some time. Though she only learned to swim last summer, Miss Garratti recently caused a near sensation by beating such wellknown celebrities as Ethel Lackie and Gertrude Ederle in the 50-yard-free-style event at St. Augustine, Fla. Those who have seen her in action predict an exceedingly bright future for her.

Too Many Gloves For Kayoed
Boxer To See Foe In Ring

In the festive realm of fistiana—more commonly known as the boxing or prizefighting game—the big thing is the knockout wallop. For it's the punch, the old sock that carls the bacon home more than anything else.

How does it feel to take a knock-out smack that sprawls the victim out on the floor for a 10-count or longer? That question has been often asked. I have thought of it as I have seen a fallen pug stretched out in the ring unaware of the great ovation being accorded the victor.

Does he have a pleasant dream during his short nap under the influence of the blow? Does he hear the birds chirping merrily or what? Well, here's what a sleep-producing punch did to a fighter by the name of Sailor Gagnon a few years ago:

Gagnon, who hailed from Kalamazoo, Mich., had lofty ambitions. He wanted to be a top-notch. And like all pugilists he enjoyed to dream of what the future held for him in the roped arena. But on this occasion he not only had a regular dream but what might well be called a nightmare.

Gagnon was booked to go 10 rounds with Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis. In the third session the bell saved him from a knave after he had kissed the canvas three times. In the middle of the fourth round however, Wiggins put over a real knockout wallop. Down and out went Gagnon.

As he was being carried to his dressing-room he rallied a bit and glancing up at his manager, said: "I thought Mr. Wiggins was to be here tonight."

"But I didn't see him," whispered the fighter.

"Why, he was right 'in the ring with you," as twine answer.

"Then he must have been hiding behind all those gloves, 'cause I never saw him," said Sailor with a sigh as he sank back on the stretcher to dream some more.

CAPTAIN OF MAROON FIVE IS FAMILY MAN

Bill Weiss, captain and star guard of the University of Chicago basketball team is a family man. Weiss is married and the father of a four-year-old son. And besides, the Maroon is a pretty nifty football player, though an injury kept him on the sidelines most of last season.

LAWRENCE FROSH
DROP CONTEST TO
EAST GREEN BAY

Valley Champs Down Collegian Yearlings, 7 to 5, in Close Battle

East Green Bay basketball team, high school, winners of the Valley conference title, were forced to extend themselves to beat Coach "Liz" Blackburn's fighting Frosh from Lawrence college Friday night at Green Bay by a 7 to 5 score. The game was a practice tilt for East which will play at the Marinette district tournament next week. The entire game was featured by close guarding and clean playing. The Lawrentians lead at the half, 5 to 3, but were unable to score in the last period when Green Bay dropped in two ringers. Though Blackburn's crew were guarded so well that they were unable to garner a point in the last period, not a foul was called on Green Bay's fast moving squad.

The Nut
Cracker

How many children in the chapel today can remember the delightful medieval period when ball players used to go south in the spring to play ball?

Back in the sun-bathed afternoons when Mathewson's fadeaway and Bresnahan's strange-looking shinguards commanded headline positions in the metropolitan dailies, spring training was an operation closely related to the business of ball playing.

OLD-FASHIONED MANAGERS, WEARING A CHIP ON THEIR SHOULDERS AND A VAN DYKE ON THEIR CHINS, WOULD HOARD THEIR BROODS TOGETHER ON MARCH 27 AND HAVE THEM IN SHAPE TO WHIP ANY UMPIRE IN A 40-ROUND FIGHT BY APRIL 3.

If the demon athlete of 1908 vintage even mentioned golf in training camp he would be ostracized by the honorable rough necks on the squad and ugly rumors would begin to circulate that he slept in pajamas and used a tooth brush.

Nobody wore knickers in those days except polished English villains in Clyde Fitch drawing-room dramas. . . . Ball players who failed to wear heavy red sweaters and three days' growth of beard in hotel dining-room were tossed out as imposters.

Progressive bridge tournaments were not considered necessary to take old-timers' minds off arduous training program. . . . The business of holium was not far advanced in those days and ball player were not supposed to have minds.

MODERN TRAINING CAMP IS A CROSS BETWEEN A LONG ISLAND HOUSE PARTY AND AN EXECUTIVE ATHLETIC CLUB. . . . IT'S A FASHIONABLE SPOT FOR EVERYTHING BUT BASEBALL.

A rookie who can do his home course in three under par and who knows whether to wear a white bow or a black ascot with a dinner coat goes over bigger than a .400 hitter with a Ty Cobb trade-mark.

Baseball has changed sharply since Charley Ebbetts grabbed of his first college date but the change has been dictated largely by the fashion pages of Vanity Fair and wide circulation of Books of Etiquette.

What the boys in the bleacher seats would like to see is a return to the days when a tobacco-chewing left fielder could say, "I Got It" and not blush.

We'll Pick Our Own
Fights, Kearns Tells Gotham Boxing Board

New York Commission Tells Dempsey to Make Up His Mind Within 24 Hours Whom He Will Fight

New York—Jack Dempsey and the New York state athletic commission are sparring for an opening in an unheralded match with the solons of the empire state broadcasting their punches across the continent. The boxing public is refereeing the match.

From out of the Atlantic seaboard Friday came a jab at Dempsey's crown, which carried a message to the heavyweight king from the New York commission that he should stand right up and say within 24 hours, whether he would like to accept a challenge from Larry Wills, silent Negro heavyweight. At the same time a right hook followed explaining that after he had carefully considered the Wills matter he might take cognizance of the fact that Tommy Gibbons has also mailed a challenge which he would like the titleholder to look over with a view to making a bargain.

Jack Kearns who guides the champion's business destiny, parried the two blows with another that flatly told the New York commission that it should play in its own yard and not trespass as Dempsey would not be dominated by any body of men unless they wanted to promote a fight for him.

The datum to Dempsey was the first official act taken by the commission after its reorganization meeting Saturday in which James A. Farley of Stony Point, N. Y. was elected chairman to succeed George E. Brower, who has held the office since last January. Commissioner Brower did not attend the meeting and in a statement later claimed the election was illegal.

Milan, Italy—A fight for the heavyweight boxing championship of Italy between brothers appeared likely with the Italian Boxing federation ready to permit Giuseppe Spilla to challenge Erminio for the title.

SARMIENTO FIGHTS
MARTIN TO DRAW

Not a Single Clinch in 10 Rounds of Fast Fighting in Milwaukee

Milwaukee—Eddie "Cannon" Ball Martin of Brooklyn, world's bantam weight champion and Pete Sarmiento, Filipino featherweight, engaged in a ten round no-decision contest here Friday night with the result in doubt. The verdicts of the newspaper experts ranged from a shade to Martin, to a draw.

The fight was so fast that not a single clinch was recorded in the 10 rounds. Martin, rugged and the aggressor, earned the fighting to his opponent, standing toe to toe, to exchange punches.

Martin weighed 120 pounds, while Sarmiento scaled 121½. Harold Smith, Chicago bantamweight, staging a comeback after a year's absence from the ring, had a shade the better of Eddie Anderson of Moline, Ill., in a ten-round semi-final.

Smith weighed 118 pounds while Anderson scaled 117½.

ACTORS IN "RAIN" WORTHY OF PLAYING IN BETTER DRAMAS

New York Success Didn't Make
Impression Here as High
Class Play

"Rain," a three act play by John Colton and Clemence Randolph came to the Appleton theatre Friday night with the reputation of having been one of the outstanding successes of current theatrical business in New York, but it didn't make so great an impression here that it would fill the theatre for an extended run. "Rain" was a pretty good play for those who like that kind but there aren't many people in Appleton who think goodness goes into raptures over dramas of that type.

This may stamp Appleton as provincial and prudish and "those and us" but there isn't any disgrace in being behind the times if it is on moral grounds on depravity. Not that "Rain" was depraved. There are a whole lot of lines in it, powder that gentlemen and ladies do not use in their homes especially when children are around.

But "Rain" was presented by an excellent cast. George Lee Hall as Eddie Thompson is a splendid actor who had a difficult part and did it well. The same can be said about Shon Camp, as Joe Horn, the fat well read, lazy trader of Pago Pago in whose store the action of the play takes place. John Waller as the Rev. Alfred Davidson the missionary, Miller Kent as Dr. McPhail, Mari Clarke as Mrs. Davidson and the rest of the cast also were excellent.

"Rain" fell almost continuously during the play. The monotonous pound of the rain on the roof finally began to make even the audience yawn and irritable.

The play was well acted and staged, the effort being worthy of something better than the play. It was a good thing, however, that "Rain" came to Appleton. It let the folks here see what New York can rave about.

MILLER TALKS TO HOME BUILDERS ON PLANNING

Earl F. Miller, Appleton architect and builder, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Homebuilders Institute at 7:30 Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Miller will talk on Good Architectural Planning. A large crowd attended the meeting last week and plans are being made to take care of a much larger group Monday night. The talk will be followed by a discussion of the subject and several house plans will be exhibited. The meetings are open to any one interested in planning and building a home.

CHECK UP WORK OF BETTER CITIES CONTEST

Aubrey W. Williams, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work will come to Appleton Friday, March 13 for a series of conferences with committees of the better cities contest, according to a letter received by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of Appleton chamber of commerce. Mr. Williams will meet with each of the ten committees on that day and check up their work to date. Two of the committees have their work practically completed. Mr. Corbett said.

APPLETON FIRM AWARDED TEMPLE WIRING CONTRACT

The contract for electric wiring and other electrical work in the Masonic temple about to be constructed at Venah has been awarded to the Langstadt Electric Co. The temple is to be started at once. It will cost about $50,000.
